LINDELL BENEFIT
LEAVES SLIPSHOD
WORK, CITY AVERSFurther Delay in Widening Project at Channing Bottle-Neck as New Commission Is Sought.THIRD REPORT ON CASE SINCE 1919Assessments Against Some Property Assailed as Too High—Glaring Irregularities, Expert Says.

Further delay in widening Lindell boulevard, to eliminate the bottle-neck between Grand boulevard and Channing avenue, will result from the action of the city's representatives in Circuit Judge Hall's court today. The city asked that the report of the commissioners be set aside, contending that they did slipshod work, that benefit assessments against some property were too high and that some property included in benefit districts should not be assessed for this purpose at all.

Judge Hall took the motion under advisement. If it is granted, a new commission will probably be named. The present commissioners are the third set who have been appointed in the case, pending since 1919.

The city's position in this case is unusual. Its objection to benefit assessments, in street widening and other condemnation cases, usually is that they are too low. In other cases which came up today, the city made the latter objection and asked that benefit assessments be increased.

W. C. Bernard, the city's technical expert in condemnation matters, testified that, in his view, 12 pieces of property had been assessed for excessive amounts, the average levy on these 12 pieces being $30 a front foot. He said that 20 pieces of property, on Locust between Twelfth boulevard and Jefferson avenue, were included in the benefit district, should not have been so included, as the benefit to this property was remote.

Bernard said the commissioners had included the North side of McPherson avenue, from Newstead to Taylor avenue, in the benefit district, but had failed to make any benefit assessments against property there. He said many of the assessments on Lindell boulevard, between Grand and Kingshighway, and on Olive street, were too low, and that there were glaring inequalities. For 50 feet frontage on Grand, the levy was $150 a front foot, while for the first 50 feet of the Melbourne Hotel frontage, directly across Grand, the levy was $20 a front foot.

Opposes Majority of Levies. Altogether, the city took exception to more than three-quarters of the levies. Damages are due on 21 pieces of property on both sides of the bottle-neck, and the city is objecting to most of these awards.

The assessment was the largest any place, and the smallest was $1 a foot for Olive street property, between Twelfth and Eighteenth street. Total damages were fixed by the commissioners at $376,624.42 and benefits at $444,483.33, leaving $142,157.15 as the city's share. The benefit district, in general, covers property fronting on Olive, Locust, Lindell and McPherson avenue, between Twelfth and Kingshighway.

Commissioners were John N. Pickett, a former Police Captain; Joseph Reilly, a lawyer, and Edward H. Baumann, a former Deputy Assessor and State Senator. Baumann refused to sign the report. The city had to spend a month in writing up the report in legal form in order to get it into court with the hope of invalidating it.

Warm Springs Foundation.By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Ga., Nov. 28.—Announcement of a $500,000 endowment campaign for the Warm Springs Foundation for treatment of infantile paralysis was made last night by Gov. Roosevelt of New York, in an address at a dinner given in his honor by the patients here.

The Governor said that the purpose of the endowment was to make the treatment given here available to a greater number of persons. Each year since the Governor established the foundation in 1927, the patients have gathered on the Thanksgiving night to honor him for his work.

POST-DISPATCH CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR 10,000 CHILDREN, 5000 BASKETS FOR NEEDYFestival Committee Plans Under Way for Big Celebration This Year—$25,000 Will Be Needed.

Five thousand well-filled Christmas baskets for the neediest families in St. Louis.

A Christmas celebration in the Coliseum for 10,000 unfortunate children who otherwise would not know the joy of Santa Claus, a sparkling tree and an armful of toys.

Pipes and tobacco to brighten the holiday season for the city's homeless men.

These are the outstanding features in the program of the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival Committee for the thirty-first annual Christmas Festival which will be held this year.

Most important of the committee's plans is the decision to raise the distribution of Christmas baskets. That act of hospitality, provided in the main by St. Louisans of average means for those less fortunate than themselves was a traditional part of the Festival until last year.

Criticism of basket giving by certain of the organized charities led to the abandonment of that feature by the Festival committee, an act which was regretted last year, inasmuch as no baskets were presented.

The Festival committee authorized a donation of $1000 to City of Police Gerk for use in his relief work among the destitute during the severe cold of last winter.

Greatest Need in 31 Years. Basket giving was put back into the Festival program at the outset of considerations for the celebration.

It is estimated that not less than $25,000 will be needed to pay this year's bills. As in years past, the committee is confident the people of St. Louis will open their hearts to that extent and thus make possible Christmas cheer to those less fortunate.

Everyone in St. Louis will have a chance to take part in the undertaking by contributing to the fund. Lists will be distributed through industrial plants, stores, business houses, office buildings and other places, and persons may send their donations direct to the Festival of the Post-Dispatch.

Contributors are assured that every cent they give will be used for one specific purpose—purchase of provisions and toys. All the expense of administering the Festival is paid by the Post-Dispatch.

WATERPOWER ACT CHALLENGED BY WILBUR'S REPORT

IN LINE WITH POLICY OF HOOVER

If Government Concerns Self Chiefly With Navigation, Recapture Provisions Likely Will Fail.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Federal waterpower act, enacted in 1920 to protect the hydro-electric power resources of the United States, was dealt a body blow in the annual report of the expiring Federal Power Commission by the declaration that the Federal Government's interest in waterpower development was concerned primarily with navigation and that the other elements of control should be left to the individual states.

The report was signed by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, and acting chairman of the commission. The other members of the commission are Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, and Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War. Under the Coughlin bill, enacted last session, the present commission will be replaced by a commission of five members as soon as the President's nominations are confirmed by the Senate. Three members were named to the new commission by the President during the closing days of the last session, but their nominations were not confirmed. The President is expected to name all five of the members of the new commission shortly after the short session convenes.

Chairman Wilbur, a close friend of President Hoover, has dominated the Power Commission since he took office in March, 1929. The proposal to make the individual states responsible for control of water-power development is in line with his plan to give states control over public land now administered by the Federal Government.

Faces Strenuous Opposition. The recommendation of the expiring commission undoubtedly will encounter vigorous resistance from Progressive Republicans and Democrats in Congress. Administration leaders seek legislative approval of the plan. Only a few states, like Pennsylvania and New York, have laws adequate to protect the public's right in water-power resources.

Several states, according to the annual report, have challenged the jurisdiction of the Federal Commission over specific projects. After citing these complaints, the report continues: "Clearly, the Government has the principal obligation in safeguarding the interest of navigation and such Federal properties as may be affected by water-power projects, but in other respects the control of these developments is largely a matter of state interest. Since this situation involves a considerable degree of dual authority, there are present the elements of possible conflict and confusion which might seriously impede desirable development unless the state and Federal agencies find a basis whereby each may properly supplement and not duplicate the other."

If the Federal Government concerned itself primarily with navigation, it would have no foundation for enforcing the recapture provisions of the present water-power act and for auditing the accounts of companies licensed under the act. The commission's legal experts, who have been at odds with Chairman Wilbur on many points, have interpreted the act to mean that the commission's audit can approve only "actual, legitimate expenditures" on licensed projects. The Associated Gas & Electric Co., through a subsidiary, the Clarion River Power Co. of Pennsylvania, has brought an injunction suit in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, to test the validity of this interpretation.

Possibilities at Baginell Dam. The report declares that the Baginell Dam on the Osage River in Missouri is one of the most important new projects under construction this year. If the Wilbur recommendation to confine the Federal Government's concern with

White House Thanksgiving Guest

PRESIDENT HOOVER and MRS. EDGAR J. RICKARD, MR. and MRS. RICKARD, with their daughter, Miss Peggy, dined with the President and Mrs. Hoover and their son, Allan, yesterday.

This project primarily to navigation was approved, the lack of power laws in Missouri would permit the developing companies to escape much, if not all, of the supervision now exercised by the accounting and legal divisions of the Federal Power Commission.

The report points out that for the country as a whole the per capita demand for electricity has more than doubled during the last 10 years, increasing from 191 kilowatt hours in 1920 to 800 kilowatt hours in 1929.

Attractiveness of Fuel Power.

"On the other hand, the greater rate of increase in per capita use in the other regions during the last decade probably reflects the increasing relative attractiveness of fuel power which has resulted from the marked economies effected in recent years in the production of electricity by the use of fuel. The modern steam electric station now offers keen competition with the hydro-electric plant, and with the wide distribution of cheap fuel supplies the cost of producing electrical energy has been equalized throughout the country to a considerable extent. It is expected that the per capita consumption of power will reflect a similar trend after making allowances, of course, for the heavy use of large industrial concentrations and the higher cost of serving districts of sparse population.

At present, the total capacity of all projects licensed under the waterpower act amounts to 2,608,368 horse-power. This is equivalent to about 24 per cent. of all hydro capacity and slightly less than 6 per cent. of the total generating capacity in public utility service throughout the country. Reports accruing to the commission from license fees amounted to about $500,000 during the fiscal year ended last June.

"I'M PASSIONATE VIRGINIAN," LADY ASTOR TELLS COMMONS

In Debate She Says "Men Will Never Be Free Until Women Are Free."

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Viscountess Astor, the former Nancy Langhorne, told the House of Commons today that she is still a "Passionate Virginian" for all her British citizenship.

Nationality, said she, in the course of a debate on a bill to permit women marrying foreigners, to choose whether they shall retain British citizenship, or take that of their husbands, is an individual matter which women should be permitted to decide for themselves.

"Men will never be free until women are free," she said. "To my mind, being very fond of men, I am interested in their moral and social progress that I want to free women."

Some of her political statements were challenged in the course of the speech. "You certainly get a lot of license," one member said. "There is a lot of liberty I'd like to take away," she retorted. "In the name of liberty?" she was asked.

"No, in the name of sobriety," she replied.

The nationality bill passed on the second reading.

"I'm still a passionate Virginian," Lady Astor said. "If I lived away from my country for 100 years I would still be a Virginian, but that would not prevent my being a good British citizen. I'm trying to bring up my children so that they will be good citizens in any country."

EARTHQUAKE LOSS IN JAPAN PLACED AT $50,000,000

Check Shows 253 Killed, 345 Injured and More Than 7800 Houses Damaged or Destroyed.

By the Associated Press. TOKIO, Nov. 28.—Thousands of homeless on the Izu Peninsula, the northern part of which was shaken by an earthquake yesterday, turned to the task of restoration today, and the work of rebuilding dwellings, shops and farm houses was begun with the aid of hundreds of soldiers and firemen from cities adjacent to the stricken area.

Virtually complete reports on the property damage indicated that, while the material losses had been heavy, they had been confined largely to rural communities and resorts, sparing the larger centers of population.

The Shizuoka prefectural government announced that 253 had been killed, 345 injured, 2266 houses destroyed, 5562 dwellings damaged. Besides the damage to private property, railways, highways, communication systems and power plants suffered heavily. The total damage probably will approach $50,000,000, but authorities refused to make any estimate.

Harbor and Tunnel Damaged. Two large projects, Shimizu Harbor and the Tama Tunnel, were known to have been badly damaged. The harbor, near Shizuoka, is the principal port for the shipment of Japanese oranges, lacquer work and tea to America. New works in the harbor were damaged more than $500,000.

The five-mile Tama Tunnel, which the Government railways have been building for the past decade at a cost of $10,000,000, was damaged in many places. From the outset the tunnel builders encountered difficulties such as earth slides and streams of boiling water.

Earth tremors continued in the northern part of Izu Peninsula. The seismograph at Mishima recorded 50 shocks between 4:03 a. m. Wednesday, when the big quake began, and 8:30 a. m. today.

That further "after shocks" must be expected in the stricken area was the announcement of Dr. Kunitomi, earthquake authority of Tokyo Central Observatory. He said the shocks were due to earth faults produced by the great quake of 1923 and not to volcanic action.

Warning Prevented Fire. Special health parties were dispatched by the government into the quake area to prevent possible epidemics and the Finance Ministry announced it would remit taxes to the quake sufferers for the coming year.

Landslide occurred or heaped high with debris many roads and communications were badly damaged. Temporary shelters of all types, including thousands of tents dotted the countryside.

Warned 16 days of preliminary tremors, most residents had extinguished fires in their homes before sleeping Tuesday night and thereby prevented a conflagration such as that which added horror to the earthquake of 1923, destroyed 10,000 buildings in Tokyo and killed approximately 100,000 persons.

The quake was most severe between Mishima and Numazu, in an area 15 miles long and five to 10 miles wide and about 125 miles southwest of Tokyo.

(Copyright, 1930.) NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 28. SOME years ago a prominent man attracted considerable attention by refusing to purchase some garments at a very low price because he considered that the needle women who made them were underpaid. He did not care to profit by their distress. He felt that what he might save in such a transaction was blood money wrung from the unfortunate. He was right.

There will be general satisfaction in learning that our country through the national Government is adopting a like attitude. We wish to protect our own wage earners, our agriculture and industry from the results of dumping produce on our markets at a price with which they could not compete. But the policy has a deeper significance than that. We are unwilling to profit by the distress of foreign people. We do not want their blood money. Our efforts are not only to protect our own people from cheap goods, which President McKinley said meant cheap men, but we propose to set up a standard that will discourage other nations from exploiting their people by producing cheap goods. Our policy requires fair wages for both domestic and foreign production. We have no market for blood and tears.

ers or quitters. Each and every officer must do his part. This office wants to be informed as to how this order is being carried out, and to that end you will forward daily reports captioned "Roundup of Crooks," stating just what places have been visited, what arrests have been made and whether you are applying for warrants against them or sending them to Police Court."

Procedure to Be Followed. Later the following addition was made to the order and sent out over the police telephone.

"When known gangsters, gunmen, confidence men, extortionists and so forth, are arrested you will book them 'for investigation,' and at the end of 20 hours, if they are to be released, you will respect them and book them 'suspected of vagrancy,' under section 3381 of the statutes of Missouri."

Chief Gerk explained this procedure by saying it would give the police a chance to exhibit the arrested men in the police shadow-box before victims of recent robberies, during the first 20 hours they are held and in case no robbery identification is made the police then can proceed with the vagrancy prosecution.

Vagrancy warrants were issued Wednesday on complaint of Police Capt. John Carroll and Lieut. Thomas Wren, against William Wilbert, known to his associates as "Willie G.," and Thomas E. Hayes, better known as "Tommy." Hayes is no relation of the Hayes arrested Monday by Chief Kaiser and fined by default in Police Court today.

In applying for the warrants, Capt. Carroll said Wilbert had been arrested 13 times in less than a year, but had been released each time for lack of evidence.

Hayes, Carroll said, was convicted of mail robbery in 1922, sentenced to five years in prison and fined $3000. Hayes was acquitted in January, 1929, of the murder of Mike Longo, an Italian gangster slain in 1928. He was picked up three times in the last year and released on each occasion.

BEER BARON SURRENDERS SO HE CAN VISIT INJURED SON

Chicago Judge, Notified of Situation, Meets Him at Police Station and Approves Bond.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—"Big Joe" Sallis, "public enemy" and retired "back of the yard" beer baron, returned to Chicago asking for and receiving mercy from Judge John H. Lyle, enemy of gangsters. Wednesday night, Sallis was secure from the law at his sanctuary at Winter, Wis. But the telephone rang Wednesday night and he was told that his 14-year-old son, Emil, had been taken to a Chicago hospital, seriously injured. One automobile had bowled him over and another had run over him, crushing his skull. Sallis came back to Chicago and surrendered.

"I'll surrender to the law," he told James Burke, his attorney, "but I'd like a chance to make bond. I want to be with my boy, but I don't want to disgrace him by being arrested in the same room with him."

Judge Lyle was quick to act. "I'll meet you and Sallis at the Englewood police station at once and arrange to free him on bond immediately, so he can stay at the hospital without fear of being annoyed by police," he said.

Judge Lyle fixed the bond at $30,000, which was approved without delay, and set the case ahead for next Tuesday.

HEAD OF CLOSED BANK ENDS LIFE IN HOTEL

R. E. Donnell, 63, of Nashville, Tenn., Strangles Himself With Shoe Laces.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 28.—With a shoe lace drawn around his neck, the body of R. E. Donnell, 63 years old, president of the closed Liberty Bank and Trust Co., a depository which he organized, was found in a hotel room early today.

Search for Donnell had been made for several hours before it was learned he had registered at the hotel. Repeated telephone calls to the room went unanswered and the door was opened. Mr. D. Johnson, assistant cashier of the bank, identified the body.

An envelope on which was written "to Ridley E. Donnell Jr. from Daddy," and containing his watch and chain, was found in his vest pocket. The lace from his left shoe had been removed and tied around his neck over a handkerchief.

Police said Donnell had committed suicide and that no inquest was necessary.

Since the bank closed the night of Nov. 13, friends of the banker said he had worked almost ceaselessly in an effort to reopen it and as a result had been under a constant nervous strain.

A statement of the bank, Donnell said, at the time of the closing, showed resources of approximately $1,000,000. He expressed the opinion that with economical administration of the depository's affairs the depositions would be paid in full. The state superintendent of banks was named receiver.

The Liberty Bank and Trust Co. was one of about a dozen banks in Tennessee that have closed this month. It was the second to fail in Nashville, its closing following by a week that of the Bank of Tennessee, a subsidiary of the investment banking house of Caldwell & Co., now in receivership. The People's Bank and Trust Co., a Negro bank in Nashville, closed a week ago.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 28.—The trial of Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, charged with the murder of her stepdaughter, Leona, was started today after Judge Henry A. Calvert overruled a defense motion for a three-day continuance. The defendant, who recently submitted to a spinal puncture by her physician to test her mental condition, was in court.

The State has introduced 23 witnesses, among them Leo O'Loughlin, city detective and husband of the victim, and an examination of the contents of the stomach of the child's father, Ill in a hospital, also disclosed ground glass. DO-X IN LISBON; FLIGHT TO U. S. APPARENTLY OFF

By the Associated Press. LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 28.—Just three weeks after it started from Altenrhein, Switzerland, on a projected trans-Atlantic flight to New York, Germany's flying boat, DO-X, landed here yesterday. It had come from Corunna, Spain, in a little more than four hours.

What the DO-X will do now remains uncertain. Dr. Claude Dornier, the designer, has said he will send it across the South Atlantic to Brazil some time in December or January. It appears that he has abandoned the New York flight, but he has not said so definitely.

Dr. Dornier has gone to Paris for the International Air Exposition, leaving Commander Friedrich Christiansen in charge of the plane.

Two Charges Against Barth. MURDERED GANGSTER, ABATED ROBBERY CASES IN WHICH HE WAS CHIEF STATE WITNESS ALSO ARE DROPPED.

Two charges which were pending against Lester Barth, notorious gangster, who was killed with his companion, Dewey Costello, by machine gun fire Saturday, were abated today by Circuit Judge Green at the request of the Circuit Attorney's office.

Charges of robbery against Joseph Simon, Joseph Costello, and Florida and Gus Joseph, accused of participation in the $14,000 holdup of the Union Eastern Trust Co. June 22, 1926, were quashed because the dead gangster was a state witness in the cases. Previous attempts to convict, with Frank Slaby, a former convict, as the chief state witness, were futile.

The charges abated against Barth involved the robbery of the Hamilton State Bank, March 8, 1926, and the carrying of a concealed weapon.

TO INCREASE TAX ON WAGES TO AID AUSTRALIA'S JOBLESS

By the Associated Press. SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 28.—An increase in the tax on wages to benefit the unemployed in Australia was approved by the Labor Party caucus today on the recommendation of Premier J. T. Lang. This increase will be 1 shilling in the pound roughly 20 per cent.—on wages and earnings.

The Cabinet's proposal for relief of the unemployed included compulsory loan of 2 shillings in the pound—10 per cent.—from all persons exceeding $2500 annually, and, alternately, an increase in the present relief tax to a shilling in the pound. The latter measure was the one adopted. It is expected to yield about $25,000,000 annually.

LANDS SAFELY NEAR RANCH HOUSE

Machine Crashes Mile Distance—Pilot Was Within Hour of Goal When Forced to Jump.

By the Associated Press. SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 28.—Inland of holding a new junior, transcontinental flight record, Gerald Nettleton, 20-year-old Toledo, O., aviator, was enrolled today as the youngest member of the "Catalpina Club."

Nettleton, made a 10,000-foot parachute drop to escape from a landing rain and snow storm which encompassed his plane near yesterday as he was within less than an hour of finishing his transcontinental flight.

He drifted gently to earth near a ranch house as his abandoned plane crashed a mile away. Nettleton was unhurt. He made his way to a ranch house and topped off his adventure with a big Thanksgiving dinner.

"The weather was 'sloppy'—rain, fog and snow," said Nettleton, "and it didn't see 10 feet. The industry 'froze' and since I couldn't see, there was only one thing to do, and that was to jump."

"I fought the weather as long as I dared. I hated to jump, but that was my only alternative. So I jumped the plane off, cut the fuel, closed the throttle and slid out of the door."

"Jumping wasn't such a hard job. I knew it was all I could do, but I was about 300 feet from the plane and then yanked the rip cord."

"The last I saw of the plane, it was floating gently. I had fallen several minutes and did not see it until it was about 200 feet from me. That's how bad the weather was."

When Nettleton landed, he had about 40 miles to go in his attempt to break the record of 24 hours, 15 minutes, set by Stanley Bryan, 18, of Rockland, Me. The end of the flight followed a week of hard luck. Motor trouble delayed Nettleton down Monday near Benson, Ariz. The next morning he was forced to stop at Tucson, Ariz., for additional repairs.

Wednesday, on reaching Imperial, Cal., he postponed the last leg of his trip because the motor did not perform to his satisfaction. Young Nettleton started his last-to-coast flight from Newark, N. J.

3000-PAGE RECORD IN MARKET INQUIRY IS SENT TO HYDE

Secretary of Agriculture to Review Testimony on Conspiracy to Boycott
Co-Operatives.

NEW MOVE MADE TO DISQUALIFY HIM

His Refusal to Testify at East St. Louis Hearing Cited as Evidence of Prejudice.

Testimony given during the three-week hearing of charges that two livestock co-operatives sponsored by the Federal Farm Board have been boycotted at National Stockyards on the East Side, has been transcribed into a record of 3000 pages and forwarded to Washington for review by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

If he decides that a boycott existed he may suspend from business the firms found to have participated in it. Defendants in the action were 46 old line firms, comprising most of the membership of St. Louis Livestock Exchange, the St. Louis Order Buyers' Association and the Co-operative Farmers' Livestock Commission Co., which is not recognized by the Farm Board. The last move of the defendants before the hearing ended Wednesday was to offer a motion that Hyde disqualify himself because of prejudice.

In support of this charge, M. W. Borders Sr. of defense counsel submitted an affidavit in which he said that Hyde had indicated prejudice by refusing to testify at the hearing, and by refusing to issue subpoenas for the books and records of the Producers' Livestock Commission Association and its affiliated enterprise, the National Order Buying Co., the firms said to have been boycotted.

Subpoenas for Alexander Legge, chairman of the Farm Board; C. B. Denman, its livestock member, and other Government officials were denied also.

A similar motion, urging Hyde to disqualify himself, was offered at the outset of the hearing, and was not acted on. Hyde was represented during the proceedings by J. B. Horgan of his legal staff, who presided.

Most of the defendants readily admitted refusing to deal with the co-operatives, but all denied that any boycott agreement existed among them.

They contended they were justified because the Farm Board program for development of co-operative marketing will mean the elimination of other market agencies, and because of alleged illegal marketing practices of the co-operatives. A separate defense was offered by the Farmers' company.

Its manager, Frank B. Young, said his counsel had told him that he would be justified in refusing to deal with the rival co-operatives. Of the firms said to have been boycotted, the Producers' is a commission agency, representing farmers, and the National company, a buying agency for packers. The defendants contended that the close connection between them would make possible special price agreements so that either might obtain an unfair advantage over its competitors.

The National company lost $14,000 in three months after opening on the St. Louis market last August. Part of this was due to selling below cost. The defendants charged that this was done deliberately to take business from its competitors. Representatives of the company denied that was the case and said its costs were above normal because it could not buy freely at the market.

Body of Man Found Burned.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BENTONVILLE, Ark., Nov. 28.—The body of Bill Paine, who lived near the Missouri line, about 12 miles north of Bentonville, was found in the woods near the Bear Hollow School in Missouri yesterday morning. The body was partly burned, and it was reported to the Sheriff here that the man probably had been killed in a drunken fight.

Found Shot to Death on Street.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 28.—A young man found shot to death on the street here yesterday was identified tentatively as Clarence Patterson of Fort Dodge, Ia. Two men appeared at an undertaking establishment to view the body, and said it was that of Patterson. The young man, they said, had come to Kansas City from St. Paul, Minn., where they were employed in construction work. Patterson, they added, had played poker with them in the North End Wednesday night and left to visit a sister. That was the last they heard of him. The body was found propped against a building. A trousers pocket was turned inside out.

Pistol Fired by Jeweler After Hominy (Ok.) Team Wins Over

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Ok., Nov. 29.—Two persons were shot accidentally, following a high school football game here yesterday, in which Hominy defeated Cleveland, 6 to 0. Shots fired by Norton Harvey, Hominy jeweler, in celebration of Hominy's victory, wounded Dr. G. I. Walker, Hominy physician, and Miss Florence Mitchell, Tulsa student nurse. Harvey, who surrendered to police, said his automatic pistol went off prematurely. He had intended to fire into the air, he said. Dr. Walker and Miss Mitchell were taken to a Tulsa hospital. Physicians said their conditions were not serious.

FLORISSANT WIDENING DISTRICT ANNOUNCED

Hearing on Benefits Under Plan Will Begin at City Hall Dec. 8.

Announcement has been made by the city law department of the district fixed by condemnation commissioners for the assessment of benefits for the Florissant avenue widening. It extends from Fourteenth street and St. Louis avenue at the southeast to the city limits, between Stratford street and the Wabash Railway, at the northwest.

In the vicinity of the proposed widening, the benefit area lies within a few blocks of the street involved, but broadens to the northwest. However, much of the latter broad area consists of the land in O'Fallon Park and in Bellefontaine and Calvary cemeteries.

The width of the street, now 60 feet, is to be increased to 80 feet. The improvement affects North Florissant avenue between Palm street and Grand boulevard and West Florissant avenue between Grand boulevard and Warne avenue. Varying slices would be taken from either side. From Warne to the city limits West Florissant is wide. At Palm street the work would link with the contemplated North Twelfth boulevard extension.

Hearings on the benefits will be begun by the condemnation commissioners at City Hall Dec. 8, but it may be nearly a year before a report is made. The commissioners are George J. Pittge, a lawyer; Fred W. Evers, Republican City Committeeman from the Twenty-first Ward, and William L. Reynolds. The ordinance authorizing the widening became effective in May, 1927, and some time ago the City Plan Commission estimated the damages at $650,502.

In the Gravois avenue widening, over which there has been much discussion recently, property owners complained that they had not had sufficient notice of the benefit district, and the announcement of the district for Florissant is designed to offset such a complaint there. The Florissant, Gravois and Twelfth widenings were planned to make a great horseshoe of boulevards from southwest to northwest by way of the downtown section.

The boundaries of the Florissant benefit district are announced as follows:

"Bounded on the north by the Wabash Railroad right-of-way to the city limits; on the south by a line 150 feet south of and parallel to the south line of St. Louis avenue. Bounded on the east by Fourteenth street from said southern boundary northwardly to Angelrod street, thence westwardly to Twentieth street, and its prolongation northwardly to the south line of O'Fallon Park, thence by the south boundaries of O'Fallon Park to Taylor avenue, thence by Taylor avenue to Broadway, thence by Broadway northwardly to its intersection with the Wabash Railroad right-of-way.

"Bounded on the west by the city limits from said Wabash right-of-way southwestwardly to Stratford street, thence by Stratford street to Kingshighway-Northwest, thence by Kingshighway-Northwest to Kingshighway boulevard, thence by Kingshighway boulevard to a point 150 feet south of and parallel to the south line of Penrose street to Fair avenue, thence by Fair avenue to the south line of Kosuth, thence along the south line of Kosuth to the west line of Grand boulevard, thence by the west line of Grand boulevard to a point 125 feet north of Natural Bridge avenue, thence by a line 125 feet north of and parallel to the north line of Natural Bridge to Twenty-fifth street, thence by Twenty-fifth street to Sullivan avenue, thence by Sullivan avenue to Twenty-second street, thence by Twenty-second street to a line 150 feet south of St. Louis avenue.

Barr Library Meeting Tonight in Street Widening.

Desirability of street widenings and the process of carrying them out will be discussed at the monthly meeting of the Federation of Improvement Associations at Barr Branch Library, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, at 8 o'clock tonight.

Representatives of the persons protesting against the Loughborough avenue widening in the new Southwest highway plan and of those objecting to the benefit district for the Gravois widening have been invited to attend. City Counselor Muench and Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks have been asked to speak.

GERMAN, AUSTRIAN STUDENTS IN PROTEST AGAINST POLAND

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Mass meetings were held in the leading universities of Germany and Austria today in protest against alleged Polish acts of terrorism toward German inhabitants in Upper Silesia.

German students the world over were urged to request their respective Governments to take measures against the "Polish error." The students also called on President Hindenburg "to proceed with all the means at his command against these cruelties."

The German cabinet yesterday decided to present Germany's complaints to the next regular meeting of the Council of the League of Nations.

It is understood the German note will protest against the alleged acts of terrorism and also against the reported infraction of the liberty of the German voters during the recent election campaign in Upper Silesia.

1000 Auto Deaths in Cook County. CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—The automobile death list of Cook County since Jan. 1, 1930, reached 1000 yesterday when Policeman John S. Riley was run down and fatally injured at a South Side crossing. The high record of motor deaths in the county was reached in 1928 when the total was 1087.

Mail Plane Forced Down in Illinois RUSHVILLE, Ill., Nov. 28.—An east-bound Omaha-Chicago mail plane, which ran out of gas bucking a snowstorm, was forced down on the outskirts of Rushville yesterday and wrecked. The pilot, Jack Rose, was uninjured and the mail salvaged.

WILL H. HAYS WEDS U. S. ENVOY'S WIDOW

Bride of Former Postmaster-General Is Former Mrs. Jessie Stutesman.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Will H. Hays, ex-ambassador, and former Postmaster-General, was married yesterday to Mrs. Jessie Stutesman, widow of a former American Minister to Bolivia. Hays was chairman of the Republican National Committee in the 1928 campaign.

The marriage took place at the Bethesda (Md.) home of the bride's brother, Col. Charles D. Herron. Mrs. Hays is the daughter of Mrs. William Parke Herron of Crawfordville, Ind. Her father was a veteran of the Civil War who saw service as a Captain in the army of the Cumberland. At the time of his death in 1887 he was president of a Crawfordville bank.

Mrs. Hays' first husband was James P. Stutesman, who died in 1919. She has made her home with her mother in Crawfordville and with a brother, Maj. Frederick Herron, in New York.

The wedding was attended only by relatives of the two, including Mr. Hays' son, Will H. Jr., his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hays of Sullivan, Ind., and their two sons, The Rev. A. J. McCarthy, pastor of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church in Washington, performed the ceremony.

Hays filed suit for divorce in April, 1928, in Sullivan, Ind., his home town, from his first wife, Helen Thomas Hays, whom he married when he was a struggling young lawyer freshly graduated from Wabash College. The suit was uncontested and Hays got a divorce on grounds of incompatibility.

BEAVER COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

RECEIVES $1,000,000 FUND

Amount Grew From $50,000 Left by Dr. William Curran in 1880.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—A $1,000,000 fund left as a "foundation for the education of females in or adjacent to Philadelphia" by Dr. William Curran, who died 50 years ago, has been awarded to Beaver College, in Jenkintown, near here.

Two other institutions had filed applications for the award, Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., and the Philadelphia school for Christian Workers, Francis B. Biddle, auditor appointed by the Orphans' Court to take testimony, studied the facilities of the applying schools for months.

The money represents the accumulation of principal and income on $50,000 which Dr. Curran left in trust in 1880. The will stipulated the fund should be used to establish a foundation for a college such as the testament described, when the annual income should amount to $35,000.

Under the terms of the foundation, Beaver College must give $5000 to Lafayette College and six per cent interest on this gift from Feb. 2, 1922, to the date of the award. Biddle recommended the award be made conditional to Beaver College's surrendering its charter and by-laws to eliminate its present status as a stock corporation.

FORMER AMERICAN DIPLOMAT,

76, DIES OF STARVATION

Dr. Jeremiah Coughlin Refused Aid of Americans in Bogota, Colombia.

By the Associated Press.
BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 28.—After 44 years of exile from the United States and 59 from his native Ireland, Dr. Jeremiah Coughlin, one-time secretary of the American legation in Colombia, was buried yesterday.

He died Wednesday of starvation in his seventy-sixth year while the American colony prepared for its Thanksgiving celebration. Proud to the last, the former diplomat refused proffers of charity from his countrymen, but death came in the exclusive private hospital "House of Health" where Americans paid the bill.

Coughlin, who was exiled from Ireland as a youth, was a practicing physician in 1878, when he was appointed to the Bogota post by Secretary of State James G. Blaine. He held the post for four years, and when he left the legation continued in Bogota, practicing medicine for a while and later, tutoring in English. Sometimes he spoke wistfully of "home on the shores of Lake Superior," but he said he never wanted to go back. Yesterday most of the colony followed to the grave the body of the man who in life refused their assistance.

NUGENT STORE TO BE OPEN ON 7 NIGHTS BEFORE CHRISTMAS

B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Co. will remain open until 9 p. m. for seven shopping days prior to Christmas, as well as the Washington avenue Woolworth, Kresge and Neisner stores. It was announced today.

The Nugent schedule, which will be similar to those adopted by the other stores mentioned, provides for staying open until 9 p. m. two Saturdays, Dec. 6 and 13, and on Dec. 15, 19, 20, 23 and 24. The store will close at 6 p. m. Christmas eve.

The 6 o'clock closing hour will be observed throughout the holiday season, beginning Dec. 8, by all the other large downtown department stores. K. F. Niemoeller, secretary-manager of the Associated Retailers of St. Louis, said.

Sidney Salamon, president of Nugent's, said the 9 o'clock policy had been adopted for the first time in several years in response to numerous messages from customers who desired an opportunity to shop at night. Employees will go on duty in shifts, he said, arranged so that no girl will work overtime. Any men working overtime will receive extra compensation, he said.

The managers of other stores planning to remain open indicated they would have the same arrangement.

FAMILY OF FOUR FOUND STABBED TO DEATH ON FARM

Bodies of New Yorker, Wife, Daughter and Son Discovered by Employee of a Creamery.

By the Associated Press.

FOUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 28.—A family of four, residing on a farm near Stanfordsville, was found stabbed to death today. Police are without a clue to the assailant and unable to establish a motive for the murders.

The bodies of the farmer, his wife, daughter and son were found by an employee of a creamery.

The dead: James Husted Germond, 47 years old; Mrs. Mabel Gregory Germond, 47; Bernice, 18; Raymond, 10.

The time of the killings was fixed by authorities as late afternoon or evening of Wednesday.

Each of the four had been stabbed over the heart with a blade, apparently an inch broad. The knife was not found. Police, reconstructing the scene, think the assailant had rapped at the kitchen door of the farm house and stabbed Mrs. Germond as she opened the door. Mrs. Germond fell and the slayer apparently had stepped into the room, and, pursuing the daughter into a corner, stabbed her.

Leaving the house, police think, the slayer met Germond and his son in front of the wagon house, killing them and dragging their bodies into that building. The doors of the building had been closed to conceal the bodies of the father and son.

Germond left the farm of his brother, nearby, with a truck load of feed about 4 p. m. Wednesday. The truck was found today near the wagon house, with the ignition turned off. It is thought Germond and his son had just driven into the yard when the slayer appeared from the farm house.

NEW U. S. ENVOY PRESENTS CREDENTIALS AT MEXICO CITY

Reuben Clark Jr. Says There Is No Question That Cannot Be Adjusted Amicably.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28.—Joshua Reuben Clark Jr., newly appointed United States Ambassador, presented his credentials to President Ortiz Rubio today. In a talk with the President he said, "History records and experience demonstrates that there is no question arising between nations which may not be adjusted peacefully and in good feeling."

The presentation took place in the Ambassadors' Hall of the National Palace in the presence of the personnel of the American Embassy, representatives of the Foreign office and attaches of the President.

Clark said he was taking up his duties in the spirit that peaceful adjustment of questions between nations can be accomplished with reciprocal advantage if those questions are discussed with kindly candor, patience and a mutual appreciation of each other's point of view.

Cleveland (O.) Resident Tells Police Man Threatened to Kill Her; Victim May Live.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 28.—A prowler stuck his head through a window in the home of Mrs. Beatrice Weaver, and told her "I'm going to kill you," she reported to police last night.

"Not if preparedness means anything," she responded, reaching for an ax and striking the intruder on the skull. He fell back out of the window unconscious and police took him to a hospital.

Police exonerated Mrs. Weaver, and announced that her victim may recover.

BANK HELD UP FOR $25,000

Six Robbers Lock Up 17 Persons in Milwaukee Suburb Raid.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 28.—Six robbers raided the Layton Park State Bank in a suburb today, obtaining about $25,000 in currency. The robbers were armed with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers. Eight persons, including several women, and nine employees were herded into a conference room, while four of the men went through the cash register and money in sight. Leaving the bank, one of the robbers, apparently the leader, entered a small automobile in which Frank Scherry sat at the wheel. Pointing a pistol at Scherry, he directed that he drive cautiously. The other men entered a gray sedan and disappeared. Half a mile from the bank, Scherry was forced to stop and the man directed him to get out. The man then drove away with Scherry's car. Scherry hurried back to the bank to meet his wife, who was depositing some money at the time of the robbery. Last Dec. 6, five men robbed the bank of $52,000.

Policeman Shoots at Motorist.

Patrolman Andrew Risley reported he fired a single shot at an automobile at 2 a. m. today when the driver tried to run him down as he stood in the street in front of 3878 Delmar boulevard. Risley was in the street to direct traffic during a minor fire in the neighborhood.

DEFENSE RESUMES IN INSURANCE SUIT OVER "TWISTING"

Witness Says Improper Remittances and Not Unethical Sales Cost J. P. Sullivan Job as Agent.

Trial of the $100,000 libel suit brought against the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. and its St. Louis agent, Stratford Lee Morton, by James P. Sullivan, former agent for the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., was resumed with the prospect of completion of defense testimony today.

Among the important defense witnesses who took the stand in Circuit Judge Brackman's court at Clayton late Wednesday was Alfred L. Dern, manager of agencies for the Connecticut Mutual, who testified Sullivan's agency contract was terminated because of failure to remit premiums properly. He said letters from Morton to the agency, alleging Sullivan was "twisting" insurance, had nothing to do with the severing of business relations of the company and Sullivan.

Home Office Job Offered.

On cross-examination by Patrick H. Cullen, attorney for Sullivan, Dern said the company subsequently had offered Sullivan a position in the home office at a salary of $5000 a year. During the three years that Sullivan was in charge of the St. Louis agency he wrote between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in insurance, Dern said.

James Lee Loomis, president of the Connecticut Mutual, testified Morton had not been authorized by him to make complaint to the State Insurance Department or to the Lincoln National, and that the writing of the letters was not necessary to the furtherance of the agent's duties under his contract.

Frank L. Diemel, formerly employed by a broker selling the "emancipator policy" of the Lincoln National as directed by Sullivan, said the local agency manager told him prospective customers should be told they could surrender existing insurance and take out the "emancipator policy" at a cheaper rate, for the existing insurance was, more or less, "dead wood."

The lengthy deposition of Joseph W. Folk, New York, once employed by Sullivan, was read to the jury. Folk declared Sullivan, in sales talks, had instructed salesmen never to urge a man to drop existing insurance but to base his arguments on the advantages of the "emancipator policy."

"Twisting" Again Defined.

John J. Crowley, general agent for the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co., and Scott Smith, an insurance agent, took the stand to define "twisting" both concurring with other defense witnesses who had said fraud or misrepresentation was not necessary to proper definition of the term describing the inducing of a policyholder to surrender his insurance and take out a new policy with another company. Witnesses for Sullivan had said that fraud and misrepresentation were implied in use of the word.

Harry C. Barker, an attorney, told of visits by Folk and Sullivan, during which it was suggested, he said, that he drop insurance he was carrying and take out policies in their company. He did not follow the suggestion.

EARTHQUAKE, FIRE, FLOODS IN NORTH CENTRAL CHILE

Double Disaster at Coquimbo; Waters From Andes Cover Farm Lands.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 28.—An earthquake, fire and floods yesterday in the north central part of Chile caused damage estimated at more than 1,000,000 pesos (about $130,000).

The busy seaport city of Coquimbo was shaken by a short but sharp quake at 7:40 a. m. yesterday, throwing the inhabitants into a panic. Just as the excitement had about subsided, fire broke out in the business section and an entire block was leveled before it could be subdued. The damage from quake and fire was estimated at $100,000.

Floods resulting from the melting of heavy spring snows in the Andes are inundating farm lands along the Rivers Huasco and Copiapo. The town of Vallenar was threatened and the railroad connecting the city of Copiapo with the seaport of Saldera has been cut. All available men are being used in an attempt to stem the floods.

ANTI-SMOKE TALK ON RADIO

Attorney John B. Denvir Jr. Cites Heavy Financial Loss.

A plea for renewed efforts on the part of St. Louisans to eliminate the smoke nuisance was made in a radio address last night by John B. Denvir Jr., an attorney. Denvir recalled that statistics had been compiled indicating that smoke caused an annual loss of $18,000,000 in St. Louis, or about $75 a family.

"It is asking you to conserve your property," Denvir said, "to see that your furnaces and stoves are properly fired so that you get the maximum consumption and the least smoke."

100 BOYS ATTEND DINNER AT FATHER DUNNE'S HOME

Priest Says None in Institution Ever Brought Disgrace on It.

The annual Thanksgiving dinner party, the gift of an unnamed donor, was held at Father Dunne's Newsboys' Home, 2010 Washington boulevard, yesterday, with more than 100 boys and guests seated around a long table.

Mr. Dunne, who founded the home and is still its supervisor, presided and made the principal address. "No one in the Newsboys' Home has ever brought disgrace on it," Mr. Dunne said. "I am proud of our boys, many of whom have made excellent records in business and the professions throughout the country."

An entertainment program by boys followed the dinner, which was the twenty-fourth annual Thanksgiving affair at the home.

SLOW IN LIFTING HANDS SHOT BY HOLDUP MAN

George Abeln, Saloon Owner,
Cigar Man Routs Robbers.

When George Abeln, saloon proprietor at 1818 South Twelfth street, failed to comply promptly with the command of two robbers to raise his hands last night, one of them fired, the bullet striking his left wrist. The robbers took $185 and Abeln's revolver, robbed
Walter Remmlin, 1717 Carroll street, of $10, and took $9 from

Richard Williams, 2340 Olive street.

The robbery of a cigar store at 1634 Easton avenue was prevented by the owner, Willard French, who struck one of two holdup men.
Both ran and French, obtaining his revolver, fired a shot as he followed them into the street.

Frank Henderson, 49 Ridgmoor drive, Clayton, reported his home had been ransacked and that property valued at $2000 was missing.
A fur coat, linen, clothing and two child's banks were taken.

John Wedler, a taxicab chauffeur residing in Wellston, was held up for $10 and his machine by a man who entered the cab at Grand boulevard and Gravois avenue and ordered the driver out in front of 2105 Alford avenue. The cab was recovered.

DEFRAUDED IN JOB SCHEME

The arrest of two men who defrauded him of $15 was requested yesterday by Louis J. Novak, 2310 Chariton street, who said he had paid the money last Tuesday as part payment on $100 in stock of a bus company in Chicago which, he had been told, would entitle him to a job.

He said he met the men at Union Market and that one of them, wearing a uniform, offered him a job if he would buy the stock.
On arriving at Chicago he found an abandoned bus at the address given him.

MACDONALD BEATS VOTE OF CENSURE ON TRADE POLICY

Liberals Join With Labor in Giving Government Majority of 65 on Motion by Baldwin.

HOT WORDS, BLOW IN FACE, MARK DEBATE

Test of Policy Grew Out of the Turning Down of Canadian Tariff Proposal at Conference.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON,
A London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

(Copyright, 1930, by Press and Publiser Publishing Co., New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Labor Government today survives by a majority of 65 a vote of censure, moved by Stanley Baldwin, former Conservative Premier, for its failure to accept proposals made by the dominions at the imperial conference for fostering empire trade.
The debate preceding the vote last night in the House of Commons, at times was violent.

The Tory motion, defeated by 239 to 234, read: "This House censures His Majesty's Government of the United Kingdom for its failure to formulate any proposals for an extension of empire trade and its refusal to consider the offers made by the dominions."

If the motion had passed, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, who was not in the House during the debate, would have had no alternative but to resign. The Liberals saved the Government, as it was anticipated they would do, by voting with the Laborites.

Slap Climates Debate.

Chancellor of the Exchequer
Philip Snowden, defending free trade, ridiculed Baldwin and his other opponents. He aroused Earl Winterton, former Tory Cabinet Minister, to such fury that Winterton yelled across to Snowden:
"You are an insulting dog."

Snowden concluded his remarks amid an uproar, and then the division started. As the members were crowding toward the division lobby, Charles J. Simmonds, a Labor member and ex-soldier, who lost a leg on Vimy Ridge, hobbled across the floor and struck the Earl of Winterton, Conservative, in the face with his order papers. Baldwin and Sir Austen Chamberlain called the Speaker's attention to the incident. The Speaker said he had not seen it and therefore could take no action. There ensued a fierce argument in which neither Winterton nor Simmonds took part.
Then Simmonds apologized to the Speaker and to the House, but not to Winterton.

Baldwin and Thomas.
Baldwin said he believed profoundly that, if Great Britain did not take steps to get a sense of economic unity inside the empire, danger to that unity was great.
"You know what Bennett's (R.
Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada) offer was. You know that it was immediately sidetracked and there is no sign of anything having emerged from the month's discussion."

Dominion Secretary J. H. Thomas started the fireworks by saying that the Tory censure of the Government for not adopting food tariffs was hamburg and that Baldwin "is blaming us for not doing what he would not have dared to do himself."

Chancellor of the Exchequer
Snowden told Baldwin his speech was so bad his own supporters would be trying again to get him out of his job as party leader. This enraged the Tory benches.

Snowden Stands by Free Trade.

Snowden nailed his colors to the mast as a free trader to the bitter end, to the annoyance of large numbers of his own party, who think protection inevitable. The Chancellor did not mince words in attacking the proposals made by the dominions at the recent Imperial Conference. He declared that what the dominions demanded at the conference was that the United Kingdom should abandon its economic claims on the dominions' terms. There were cheers as he declared:

"All the sacrifice was to be made by us. They told us that they were not going to change, and therefore the economic unity which Baldwin adumbrated could only be achieved by a change in the fiscal policy of this country, and we are not having that."

Dominion Lost by Tories.

"The Tories are always mouth-ing imperial sentiment by the imperial pint. Their policy is one which will inevitably lead to the breaking up of the empire. They lost us what would have been the greatest of our dominions today by taxing them for our benefit, and today, having learned nothing, they would break up the empire by taxing our people for the benefit of the dominions."

"What was the great opportunity we are said to have missed? It was an opportunity of taxing the food of the people, of adding to our economic burdens and of injuring a very large part of our foreign trade."

NEW YORK CITY GRAFT INQUIRY IS DEMANDED

Gov. Roosevelt Urged to Act
—Jury in Tammany Bribery Case Discharged.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Because of testimony as to corruption, demands went to Gov. Roosevelt today for a nonpartisan legislative investigation of the city administration.

Norman Thomas, leader of the Socialist party, and Paul Blanshard, secretary of the City Affairs Committee, a civilian organization, have written the Governor at Warm Springs, Ga.

Declaring that "our city government is shot through and through with corruption," Blanshard in his letter referred to evidence of sale of positions on the bench and police graft from vice.

A jury was discharged yesterday when it failed to return a verdict in the trial of Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, and Thomas T. Tompamy, former Sheriff's clerk, charged with accepting a $10,000 bribe to obtain the appointment of George F. Ewald as Magistrate in 1927. The date for their retrial was set for Dec. 8.

Charles C. Burlingham, president of the Bar Association, said disbarment proceedings would be instituted shortly against lawyers who were accused at the Appellate Division's inquiry into the lower courts of acting with police and bondsmen in practicing extortion in vice cases.

"Chile" Mapocha Acuna, who testified at the inquiry that he was one of numerous stool pigeons who were employed by 25 detectives to "frame" women on immorality charges is being closely guarded and will take the stand again within a week.

SLAYER OF TWO EXECUTED

Texan Killed Policemen Who Tried to Arrest Him.

By the Associated Press.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 28.—Jesse J. Maple, confessed slayer of two Houston policemen who sought to arrest him for a robbery, was executed in the State prison early today.

The slayer as he walked from his cell to the death house showed a letter to his wife and asked the prison chaplain: "What return address shall I put on it?"

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Two Thanksgiving dinners were eaten by Leon Brown, Negro, before he was placed in the electric chair at the county jail and executed early today for his part in the murder of Martin French, bank guard, slain in an attempted bank robbery in 1928. Two companions, Leonard Shadow and Lafon Fisher, Negroes, were executed for the same crime several weeks ago.

Woman Dry Spy to Prison.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Ivo Gillespie, former prohibition informer, will leave late today for the United States Reformatory for Women at Alderson, W. Va., to serve a year and a day for conspiracy to accept a bribe from Frank (Chee Chee) Demayo, former bootlegger, now serving a Federal prison sentence. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed her sentence at St. Louis recently. Forfeiture of the $5000 bond for Henry Prudhomme, former prohibition agent, sentenced to two years in the same case, was sought today. Assistant District Attorney Keyes said Prudhomme was serving a sentence in the Louisiana penitentiary for robbery.

29 Per Cent Were Due to Machine Failure.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Slow promotion in the army air corps and a shortage in aircraft were cited today by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, as "stumbling blocks" to progress.

The promotion problem continues "to cast its shadow over the service," Davison said in his annual report.

To meet the shortage in aircraft, he recommended procurement of sufficient planes to keep full active strength even when some are withdrawn for major repairs.

The Assistant Secretary discussed the controversy over duplications in the aerial coast defense between army and navy, describing it as "serious." He recommended speedy action on the subject in order to eliminate friction between the services.

Of slow promotion Davison said it "raises havoc with the morale of air corps personnel . . . and finally tends to undermine the efficiency of the entire service by paying the way for a spirit of hopelessness which is bound to develop into apathy."

Human error, he said, was responsible for 65 per cent of air corps accidents, which resulted in 52 deaths during the year. Engines and structural failures caused about 29 per cent; 13 per cent were caused by poor landing fields and bad weather, while three per cent were listed as of doubtful cause.

The previous year death had claimed a life for every 430,000 miles flown as compared with one death in every 625,000 miles this year.

CAUSES ARREST OF HUSBAND FOUND WITH ANOTHER WOMAN

Mrs. Fred Melnhardt, Accompanied by Policeman, Trails Pair to Apartment.

Fred Melnhardt, 35 years old, an insurance agent, and a young woman booked by police as Miss Jacqueline Gassett, 21 years old, were arrested Wednesday night in a Lindell boulevard apartment house on complaint of Melnhardt's estranged wife.

Mrs. Melnhardt, accompanied by a woman friend and a policeman, went to the apartment and were admitted by the woman. Melnhardt was seated at a desk in his shirt sleeves, police report, and stated later that he was selling Miss Gassett life insurance. Melnhardt and Miss Gassett were booked on peace disturbance charges, and were directed to appear in police court next Monday.

Mrs. Melnhardt, who is suing her husband for separate maintenance, said she waited outside the apartment in an automobile until she saw her husband and the woman enter.

FINED $50 FOR TRANSFERRING CHILD WITHOUT COURT'S OK

Penalty Stayed, However, on Mrs.
Rebecca J. Ferguson's Promise of Good Behavior.

Mrs. Rebecca J. Ferguson of 5153 Vernon avenue was fined $50 and costs today by Judge Butler in the Court of Criminal Correction upon a plea of guilty of original transfer of the custody of a child without approval of the Juvenile Court. Her fine was stayed upon her promise of future good behavior.

Health Department officers said she went to the Bethesda Home and obtained babies from parents offering them for adoption, advertising the children and turning them over to foster-parents. Mrs. Ferguson received a fee from both parties, they said. She told the Court she was unaware she was violating the law.

COLD WAVE EXTENDS TO SOUTH; HEAVY SNOW IN THE EAST

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The cold wave which brought subzero temperatures to points in the Middle West today extended throughout the South, with freezing weather as far down as the Gulf and low temperatures in North Florida. At Atlanta the mercury fell to 23. Readings ranging from one to six degrees below zero were recorded in Ohio, North Dakota, Minnesota and Illinois.

Hundreds of motorists were marooned in Northwestern New York by blizzard which piled drifts 10 feet high in places in the vicinity of Dunkirk.

A snowstorm tied up traffic in Cleveland, O., where the mercury fell to 8 above.

Along the Atlantic coast sub-freezing weather prevailed. New York City experienced the coldest day of the season with temperatures well below freezing. Similar temperatures were felt along the New Jersey coast.

GRAVOIS WIDENING PROTEST OVERRULED

Court Holds Time Has Passed to Set Aside Judgment for Improvement.

A motion, filed on behalf of objecting South Side property owners, asking that the judgment for the widening of Gravois Avenue be set aside, was overruled on legal grounds today by Circuit Judge Landwehr.

Judge Landwehr expressed his personal view that the Gravois improvement should be paid for entirely from city bond issue funds. He said, however, that the city had proceeded in the manner fixed by the charter and ordinances, and that the time had passed when the judgment could be set aside in the manner asked.

Mrs. Anna K. Rothman, who appeared as plaintiff in the case, was one of a group of objectors contending either that their property should not have been assessed for benefits in the Gravois widening, or that the assessments made were excessive. August Wals Jr. appeared as her attorney.

Wals said he was ready to prove that the benefit assessments were made in reality by W. C. Bernard, city technical expert on condemnation, and not by the commissioners who signed the report. He said also that at least one of the commissioners was not qualified as a freeholder, except by owning a "political lot a few square feet in area." He said that, while the judgment was dated Oct. 16, notices of it were placed in the mails Oct. 7, as shown by postmarks.

H. H. Richards, associate city counselor, spoke against the motion to set aside the judgment. Judge Landwehr, in denying the motion, said the complaints should have been filed within 30 days after the filing of the commissioners' report, July 8, 1929, or should have moved for a new trial within four days after the judgment was rendered. The only remedy now open, he suggested, was a suit for a writ of error, or a suit alleging fraud. Judge Landwehr remarked that he had recently "inherited" the case, having taken it over on his assignment to a division of the court, after the report had been filed, and after such exceptions as were made had been passed upon.

In expressing his personal views on the proper way of paying for street widening, Judge Landwehr said that such improvements were a proper part of the state highway system.

"The City of St. Louis pay 20 per cent or more of the state highway fund," Judge Landwehr said. "Under the present state legislation both St. Louis and Kansas City are excluded from receiving any part of that fund for its major thoroughfares, which are used by people of the state as well as those in the city. It seems to me that the city's legal representative at the Legislature should try to prevent discriminatory legislation of that sort, instead of objecting to desirable measures merely because they may cost the city a few dollars."

Attorney Wals said he would take further legal steps in the case, possibly in Federal Court. He said his next petition would probably include the firm of Stutz, Nicolaus & Co. as defendants. The firm financed the city to the extent of the $1,767,827 required to be paid into court, to meet damage judgments. The company took the benefit assessment judgment on a 5 per cent discount basis.

JOHN D. JR. BACK FROM TRIP

ABROAD; 'HOPEFUL' FOR U. S.

Says Problems Will Be Solved and People Must Work to That End.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—John D. Rockefeller Jr. stepped down the gangplank of the Homeric yesterday, not quite in time to join the Rockefeller family as they gathered about the turkey at Focantico Hills.

"I am very hopeful," he said in reply to a question whether he saw anything for the present of war to be thankful for. "I have a profound belief in the people of America and the people of the world. They have never had more difficult problems and there is no telling when they will be solved, but they will be solved eventually and people must believe that and work to that end."

Spain particularly impressed him with beauty and friendliness. "Northern Spain," he said, "is like Arizona and New Mexico. An arid land of beautiful colors. The roads are good and they permitted us to travel at 50 miles an hour."

His two months abroad permitted him to adjust a matter of war that has been drifting across the sea. "I did not notice any," he said. "One goes to hear what one wants to hear. I met with only kindness and friendliness everywhere. War is a terrible thing—it goes only into a ready ear. I don't deprecate the fact that there are serious problems in Europe, but they will not lead to war."

FRANCO-BRITISH COMBINE AGAINST GERMANY CHARGED

Motion to Hold Vanquished to Disarmament Under Treaties While Leaving Victors Free Assailed.

GENEVA, Nov. 28.—A Franco-British move to bind Germany and her war time allies to the disarmament restrictions imposed upon them by the Paris peace treaties, while leaving the victors in the World War free to negotiate among themselves over their fighting forces, threw the Preparatory Disarmament Commission into such turmoil yesterday as it has never before witnessed during its six years of existence.

The issue was joined when Rene Massigli, chief French delegate, introduced a motion to include in the draft treaty in preparation for submission to the projected general disarmament conference, a clause providing that nothing in the proposed compact should release Germany and her late allies from the terms of the Versailles treaty.

This brought Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador at Washington, to his feet instantly. He charged angrily that the victors in the war were drafting a treaty which would be merely a shield behind which they could hide to maintain and perhaps increase their present armaments.

Cecil and Bernstorff clashed. Massigli, who had been expected to meet the German attack, was content to sit silent and allow Lord Robert Cecil, Great Britain's spokesman, to go to the defense of the French motion. Answering Bernstorff's thinly veiled inferences that Great Britain had sold out to France on land armaments in order to obtain France's signature to the London naval treaty, and his charge that the preparatory commission had "accomplished nothing" toward reduction of land armaments, Lord Cecil said: "It seems astounding that a responsible person not carried away by passion and prejudice should make such a statement. We have agreed to limitation of the numbers of officers and professional soldiers of every army. We have achieved budgetary limitation of total expenditure for armaments. In the face of these facts, to say that we have done nothing to make a statement devoid of foundation."

"Is it devoid of foundation," Bernstorff shot back, "to say that naval and air materials are to be limited and land materials are not? Is it devoid of foundation that budgetary limitations allow unlimited increase of the stocks of armaments from now on? Is it devoid of foundation that the central force of all trained reserves is to be left out of the treaty? I have agreed with Lord Cecil on most points in this commission for four years. If I have changed, it is because the question of land armaments has been sacrificed to sea armaments. What is needed is 'parity of security.'"

Bernstorff's embarrassing questions remain unanswered.

Proposal Adopted.

Following the heated clash between Bernstorff and Cecil, the commission adopted the principle of the Franco-British proposal and turned over to a subcommittee the task of putting it into the language requisite for a treaty clause. As it was offered the proposal read: "The present convention shall not in any way diminish the obligations of previous treaties under which certain of the high contracting parties agreed to limit their military, naval, or air armaments, and thus fixed in relation to one another the respective rights and obligations in this convention."

A Bulgarian motion that the French proposal be eliminated from the draft convention and the question of the obligations under existing treaties be left to the general disarmament conference was introduced later in today's session. It was defeated by a vote of 12 to 5, its supporters being Germany, Italy, Russia, Turkey and Bulgaria.

Hugh S. Gibson, United States Ambassador to Belgium and Washington's spokesman here, voted with France, England and nine others against the Bulgarian proposal.

In voting for inclusion of the clause perpetuating existing treaties Gibson discreetly explained that his decision had no connection whatever with the preceding discussions. In other words, he made it clear that Washington was concerned primarily with maintenance of the obligations in the Washington and London naval treaties.

During the last fortnight it has become increasingly evident that the British are supporting the French formulas on land armaments. Cecil's position completely disregarded the declaration of Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson at the September Assembly of the League of Nations covenant, obligated all members of the League to disarm equally.

After declaring that nothing but the title of the draft treaty being written here pertained to reduction of land armaments, Bernstorff declared: "Germany does not propose to sign such a document. Some may believe that it is possible to induce Germany to accede to such a proposition, which instead of leading to general disarmament, would serve only as a mask for land armaments throughout the world, or would allot others an increase in these armaments and at the same time would amount to renewing Germany's signature to disarmament clauses contained in the Versailles treaty. I beg the commission to renounce such illusions."

Litvinoff Full of Sorrow for Work of Arms Session.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Maxim Litvinoff, on his way to Moscow from Geneva, has only scowls for the work of the Preparatory Disarmament Commission. Upon his arrival here he said that if the draft treaty or the convention to be drawn up at Geneva was the best that could be accomplished after five years of international negotiations it would be better to leave the preparation for the forthcoming international disarmament conference to reliable clerks, instead of consuming the time of representatives of 30 nations.

The Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs left Geneva suddenly last week after a series of differences with the presiding officer of the conference. He said he left the conference because it had become apparent that the real purpose of the disarmament proposals was to prevent by all means any reduction in the existing strength.

He said his meeting with Dino Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, at Milan, after his departure from Geneva, was only "a friendly formality."

For Double-Deck Elevators

New York Committee Would Make 100-Story Skyscrapers Practical.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The Merchants' Association wants to take the speed limit off elevators and build double-deckers to make 100-story skyscrapers practical.

Bassett Jones, chairman of a subcommittee that is drafting a new building code for submission to Mayor Walker, reported yesterday that the proposed changes represent "a new conception of vertical transportation." In addition to removing the present 700-feet-per-minute speed limit, the committee recommends operation of two-car elevators, discharging and receiving passengers on two floors at once, and the use of two separate lifts in one shaft for local and express stops. Automatic safety devices such as are used on subway trains are advised.

COST NO MORE, BUT ARE BETTER

League Economic Conference Delegate Discusses Meager Results of Its Deliberations.

FEARS TRADE WAR ALL OVER WORLD

Only Hope Lies in Agreement to Seek Bilateral Treaties for the Reduction of Duties.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Nov. 28.—The second conference of the League of Nations for concerted economic action of member nations closed today with its delegates frank in their admission that its results were not remarkable.

Chairman H. Collin of Holland, summarizing the week in which representatives of 25 states participated, declared that the one ray of hope surviving the conference was in the promise of the Governments to seek tariff reduction by means of bilateral negotiations. He said the conference had abandoned hope for tariff reduction through a multilateral convention.

"The economic conference of 1927 agreed that the time had come to halt rising tariff walls and start a movement in the other direction," said the chairman in closing the 12-day sessions today, "but after three years tariff conditions in general are just as bad as ever."

"Everybody has agreed upon the necessity of reduction but nobody has done anything to live up to his belief. We have now chosen to direct our efforts for tariff reduction along bilateral lines. The responsibility of countries which made this decision is a grave one. If this effort fails it will be disastrous to the whole of Europe because the few remaining free trade countries will turn protectionist."

"The disaster will be not so much in losing these free markets but rather in the repercussions which will follow throughout Europe. The tariff passions which have been held in check will then be turned loose and the result will be economic warfare all over the world."

Former Governor of Milan SENTENCED TO PENAL COLONY

Italian Commission Finds That He Used Office to Increase Private Fortune.

By the Associated Press.

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 28.—Prof. Ernesto Belotti, former Governor of Milan, who was expelled from the Fascist party last month, today was sentenced to "confinement" to a penal colony—for five years.

The Provincial Commission sentenced Bartolo Belotti, former Minister in the Nitti Cabinet, to confinement for the same period.

Belotti became involved last year in a scandal concerning a $30,000, 600 loan negotiated by Milan in 1927 through the American banking firm of Dillon, Read & Co. He was exonerated of favoring the American concern in return for a money consideration, but the investigating committee found that he had used his office to increase his private fortune.

Belotti, noted as the author of political and historical works, was Undersecretary of the Treasury when Nitti was Premier, and was known as the chief of the anti-Fascists.

The sentences will be reviewed by Premier Mussolini. Recently the Premier reduced a five-year sentence imposed on an anti-Fascist editor.

ISHBEL MACDONALD PRESIDES AT BERNARD SHAW LECTURE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Miss Ishbel MacDonald presided last night at a meeting of the Fabian Society while Bernard Shaw gave his annual lecture. The famous Irish Socialist, dramatist and wit, with no idea whatever of being funny, declared defeat stares the MacDonald government in the face at the next national elections.

"If the present Government goes before the country on its record," he said, "it will confront a thoroughly disappointed electorate. The Labor party had to make large promises, but at present finds the country in a very serious situation."

He said Great Britain was sitting on a political volcano and unless changes in the present parliamentary system were made they might be made violently as had been the case in Russia.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform; never flinch against injustice or corruption; always fight for the rights of all parties; never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers; never lack sympathy with the poor, the oppressed, the devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely platitudinous news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Plea for Labor Legislation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOW that we are having the worst labor panic in the history of this country and thousands of people are starving, I want to ask, and millions of other people are asking, why doesn't William H. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, advocate a national eight-hour and minimum wage law to give everybody work at living wages? Our public servants are suggesting all sorts of makeshifts, but never mention the eight-hour law, the only real solution.

Every educated person knows a national eight-hour law would divide up the 10, 12, 14 and 16-hour jobs into eight-hour jobs and give work to everybody. A minimum wage law (recommended in President Roosevelt's platform) would do away with starvation wages, which lead to immorality and crime.

The minimum wage law would also settle the immigration question and prevent war, because if American employers had to pay a minimum wage to everybody, they would employ Americans always in preference to foreigners. As there would be no demand for foreign labor, the latter would cease to come here and cause trouble. It is the most simple and sensible way in the world to settle the immigration problem and prevent many international misunderstandings.

CONSERVATIVE.

Wants Highway No. 30 Paved.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ALL the highways are being paved but Highway No. 30, on which we live, and we would like to know if they will start on it before the bond issue money gives out. Else the next time we all surely would vote against it. We have to help pay for a good road and all we get in summer is dust, so that we can't keep our doors and windows open. In winter we get nothing but slush. We really need and would appreciate a paved highway. We hope the Highway Commissioners will soon find Highway No. 30, and at the same time give some work to some of the farmers that had a crop failure this year.

E. S.

A Defense of Rabbi Isersman.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PERMIT me to say a few words in defense of Dr. Isersman.

Life is now being feverishly attacked in some Jewish circles as well as in your columns for the stand he has recently taken on the Palestine problem.

The chief reason for the mob-like outcry against him is that he is a real Jew, that is to say, an honest and sincere man, while the Zionists, and the best of them, are pseudo-liberals.

Liberal speeches, phrases and declarations? Sure, why not? They will give them to you by the barrel, by the ton, by the carload. Applying liberal principles is something else again. Only doctrinaires unacquainted with "reality" would think of that.

And what is that "reality" pure and simple? The Zionists are the only Jews of British bayonets, to establish a Jewish homeland and reduce the native population to a minority group.

Dr. Isersman, and many other Jews, are as fully alive to Jewish problems as are those who are not. They are not Zionists. But he is big enough to realize that it is not only impossible but also undesirable to build our future at the expense of another people.

Zionism considers the Jews as the essentially chauvinistic, reactionary and unprogressive elements of our race. To be allied with them is to be allied with Jewish circles of fundamentalists, D. A. R. K. K. K. and Junkerism. Their aims are unjust, and their plans built upon delusion.

A. SPIRTAK.

St. Louis Taxicab Rates.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

HAS not the city of St. Louis any control of taxicab rates? Imagine the disgust of anyone coming into this city and using a taxicab, and finding rates are higher than they are in some other large cities. It makes visitors sore on a town that will permit such rates.

JOHN BARSTOW.

A Safety Zone Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHY does the City Council argue and quarrel for years over a question so simple of solution as the public safety zone question? Common sense should direct all authorities to build up safety platforms of concrete, high enough to prevent any motor vehicle from running over them. They should be built at every other corner in the city, not only for people boarding street cars, but for the safety of other thousands crossing the streets, inasmuch as the streets are becoming more congested and wider all the time.

It will seem impossible to get across our machine-ridden streets unless there are safety platforms in the center where pedestrians can be safe until the far side and corners of streets are cleared. Other vehicles will continue to be run over and killed in the center of the streets by murderous machines coming from all directions.

SAFETY FIRST.

MR. HOOVER HIT THE NAIL.

President Hoover is sound on the question of the Federal Government intervening to help the states punish the violators of state laws. Mr. Hoover emphatically denied that he had any intention of proposing to Congress extension of the Federal criminal laws to cover racketeering.

The President gave unanswerable reasons for his view that the states ought to enforce their own laws against crime, without calling upon the Federal Government to enlarge its sphere of action and procedure against criminals. He went beyond this and rebuked the states for failure to enforce their own laws against crime. He said the Federal Government is assisting local authorities to overcome gangsterism and corruption by convicting men "for failing to pay income taxes on the financial product of crime against state laws." He said he got no satisfaction from that, nor could anyone. It is a disgraceful reflection on state law enforcement that gangsters are permitted to make millions on racketeering and other crimes and to corrupt local officials, and then suffer only the punishment that the Federal Government can deal out for failure to make correct income returns.

There is a stronger reason than Mr. Hoover cited against the expansion of Federal laws to cover violation of state laws. The adoption of this policy by the Federal Government would be a complete usurpation of state police power. It would be a long step in the direction of the nullification of the rights, responsibilities and duties of the states and toward the establishing of Federal empire. We have had enough of that in the Federal prohibition laws which require Federal policing of states and Federal punishment of law breakers, with the breakdown of both the rights of the states and the rights of individuals. Experience has proved it a failure, as a further expansion of the exercise of Federal power would eventually be. It would destroy the rights and powers of the states and make them practically nonexistent in our original scheme of government.

Mr. Hoover said rightly that every state has ample laws to cover all such criminality and that what is needed is law enforcement, not more laws. He says that what is needed is an awakening of the people to the failure of the state to enforce its laws and protect its citizens from murder, extortion and corruption. The people of every state and every city must see to it that honest, efficient men are put in office, and that the laws are so vigorously enforced that gangsterism and banditry will be suppressed.

Must we confess that state and municipal governments have collapsed in the matter of enforcing laws and putting down crime, and that we must rush to the Federal Government to do all the things for the protection of citizens which rest upon our own local governments? Are we unable to maintain honest and efficient local government? The popular tendency to look to Washington to do everything for us threatens all local self-government. If that movement persists, we shall have an all-powerful central government controlling us, and our condition in the end will be worse. If we cannot maintain efficient local government, how can we maintain an efficient central government?

DUKE TAKES ANOTHER FROM MISSOURI.

Because "the financial support of the University of Missouri is inadequate" and because he will find at Duke University "greater funds available for the development of sociology and for salary," Dr. Howard E. Jensen, professor of sociology in the State University, has resigned to accept an offer from the North Carolina institution. In doing so Dr. Jensen follows the lead of Dr. Charles A. Ellwood, one of the most distinguished members of the University of Missouri faculty for many years, who recently left Columbia for Durham with very much the same explanation. Dr. Jensen's practical experience in social work, as president of the Indianapolis Council of Social Agencies and as conductor of social surveys in Central American Republics, made him a valued member of the Missouri faculty. There is tragedy in the departure of the Ellwoods and the Jensens from the State University.

A SWELL BOOST FOR SLANG.

Many generations of English teachers have utilized their purest diction to point out the inequities and barbarisms of slang. They have had the support of such spokesmen for the classics as Oliver Wendell Holmes, who wrote: "The use of slang is at once a sign and a cause of mental atrophy." And Ambrose Bierce characteristically called it "the speech of him who robs the literary garbage can on their way to the dumps." Now comes a kind word for slang, and from a source high in authority—Dr. Frank H. Vizetelly, dean of American lexicographers. Slang, he says, vitalizes the language, it adds expressive terms to the vocabulary, and these he admits to the dictionary as soon as they prove their worth.

Thus slang receives formally a recognition it long has held behind the purist's back. Many a word that now holds position in all dignity in the court of the King's English had a most humble origin in the argot of the theater, of sports, of new inventions, of the campus, of the street. The aggressive peoples that speak our language are quick to improvise new terms to express their ideas. Among words now accepted that entered through the back door of slang are graft, rowdy, buncombe, bootlegger, teetotaler, potboiler, loan shark, wisecrack.

It is only when a flip and telling phrase is seized upon too avidly and is worn threadbare that the dictionary makers turn thumbs down and the English teachers have cause for horror. Into this oblivion have fallen the choice expressions of yesterday: Cheese it, 23 skidoo, so's your old man, chicken (archaic term for flapper), high muckamuck, spiffed. From the expressive coinages of everyday discourse, our language takes its growth. Today's phrases of Ring Lardner and George Ade are in the professional vocabulary of tomorrow.

SUNDAY MORNING ITALIENNE.

Sunday morning to the American is a time inviolate. Then as upon no other occasion is a man's home his castle. The alarm clock does not go off, or if it does through accident, it rings in vain. The added hours of Sabbath rest glow with luxurious leisure. There is no hurry about breakfast. There is no dash for the car and work. Sunday morning freedom is a great natural resource. In a word, it is a national treasure. Americans, therefore, must have read with sympathetic resentment the latest of Mussolini's edicts. A new regulation requires all Italians over 14 to engage in military drill once a week. Poor drill is bad enough under any circumstances, and compulsory drill is infinitely worse. But the time—Sunday morning!—transcends all heights of unreason. Benito may browbeat some of the Italians all of the time, and all of them some of the time, but we submit, this is the limit. If we know mankind, Il Duce is riding for a fall and riding hard.

AIR WARFARE AFTER 29 YEARS.

The Navy Department has decided that the aeroplane as a destructive agency in sea warfare of the future cannot be overlooked. A special investigation of aerial flight in this connection is to be made. At present there are no funds available for the purchase of a flying machine for the Navy.

This item bears the rich savor of antiquity, although it was part of the day's news as recently as 1910. It is here reproduced from the "Twenty Years Ago" column of the New York Herald Tribune. Since the Navy began its experiments a score of years ago, a new arm has been added to the implements of war. Within eight years after that date it had hung up a record in the World War that established it as a permanent military factor.

All the Powers now have swarms of land and sea planes, capable of hurling tons of explosives, manned by thousands of fighting men, housed at airports and on floating fortresses known as aircraft carriers. The United States, which had no funds available for a flying machine in 1910, this year is expending $64,611,000 for the support of its Army and Navy air forces. Its five-year air program provides for 1800 fighting planes by 1931, with 1650 officers and 15,000 enlisted men as their personnel. The other Powers have kept pace. England has 1300 planes, France about 1700, Japan 572, Russia 1080, Italy 1640. Aerial armaments are an important problem at the deliberations of the Geneva preparatory disarmament conference.

This item of 1910 may well provide a peg on which the future world historian will hang a chapter. It introduces a change in military tactics as great as when the tribes of Central Asia first mounted their warriors on horses and sent them into battle.

THE SITUATION IN PORTO RICO.

From time to time in the last year have come reports from unofficial observers and statements by Governor-General Roosevelt that poverty is prevalent everywhere in Porto Rico. Now comes the statement, with undisputed authority, of Brigadier-General F. L. Parker, chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, that the situation is "desperate." He quotes Gov. Roosevelt as asserting that our insular possession has not recovered from the effects of the devastating hurricane of 1928.

Added to this is the declaration of Major-General William G. Everson, chief of the Military Bureau, that conditions are "unspeakable." He says:

A large percentage of the babies never reach more than 6 or 7 years, while those who survive are undernourished and easy prey to tuberculosis and other diseases.

We agree with these men, who presumably deal in facts and not sentiment, that the situation is a challenge to America. This is not a matter for such emergency agencies as the Red Cross. It demands vigorous action by Congress.

CUSTOMS SPIES.

Paris shops which formerly displayed signs reading, "Beware of Pickpockets," Have replaced them with placards that warn, "Beware of U. S. Customs Informers." Here is ample witness to what the world thinks of these mooping gentry. However, it is a growing business. The Customs Bureau of the Treasury Department has just announced that the Government will have rewarded informers with $300,000 by the end of 1930, as compared with $150,000 similarly paid out in 1929. The informers get 25 per cent of the penalty imposed by the Government on any luckless tourist whose effort to evade paying duty they have tipped off to the inspectors.

In Paris and other European marts, customs informing has become a sizable racket. The traveler meets a glib individual who tells him how he may conceal his purchases and fool the inspectors. This fellow is, of course, an agent provocateur who hopes the traveler will be gullible enough to follow his suggestions and fall into the trap. Other informers are sales persons, who regularly submit to the customs authorities lists of large purchases by Americans, in hope that a check-up will show an attempted evasion and bring them some easy money. Disgruntled ex-servants also find it a means of revenge that pays good dividends.

This is a sorry business for the American Government to indulge in and encourage. Customs inspectors should be alert enough to fulfill their duties without such dependence on spying and tattling.

Now it's up to the Republicans in Congress to return the compliment and promise co-operation with the Democrats on Muscle Shoals, lame duck and unemployment legislation if they want to avert a special session.

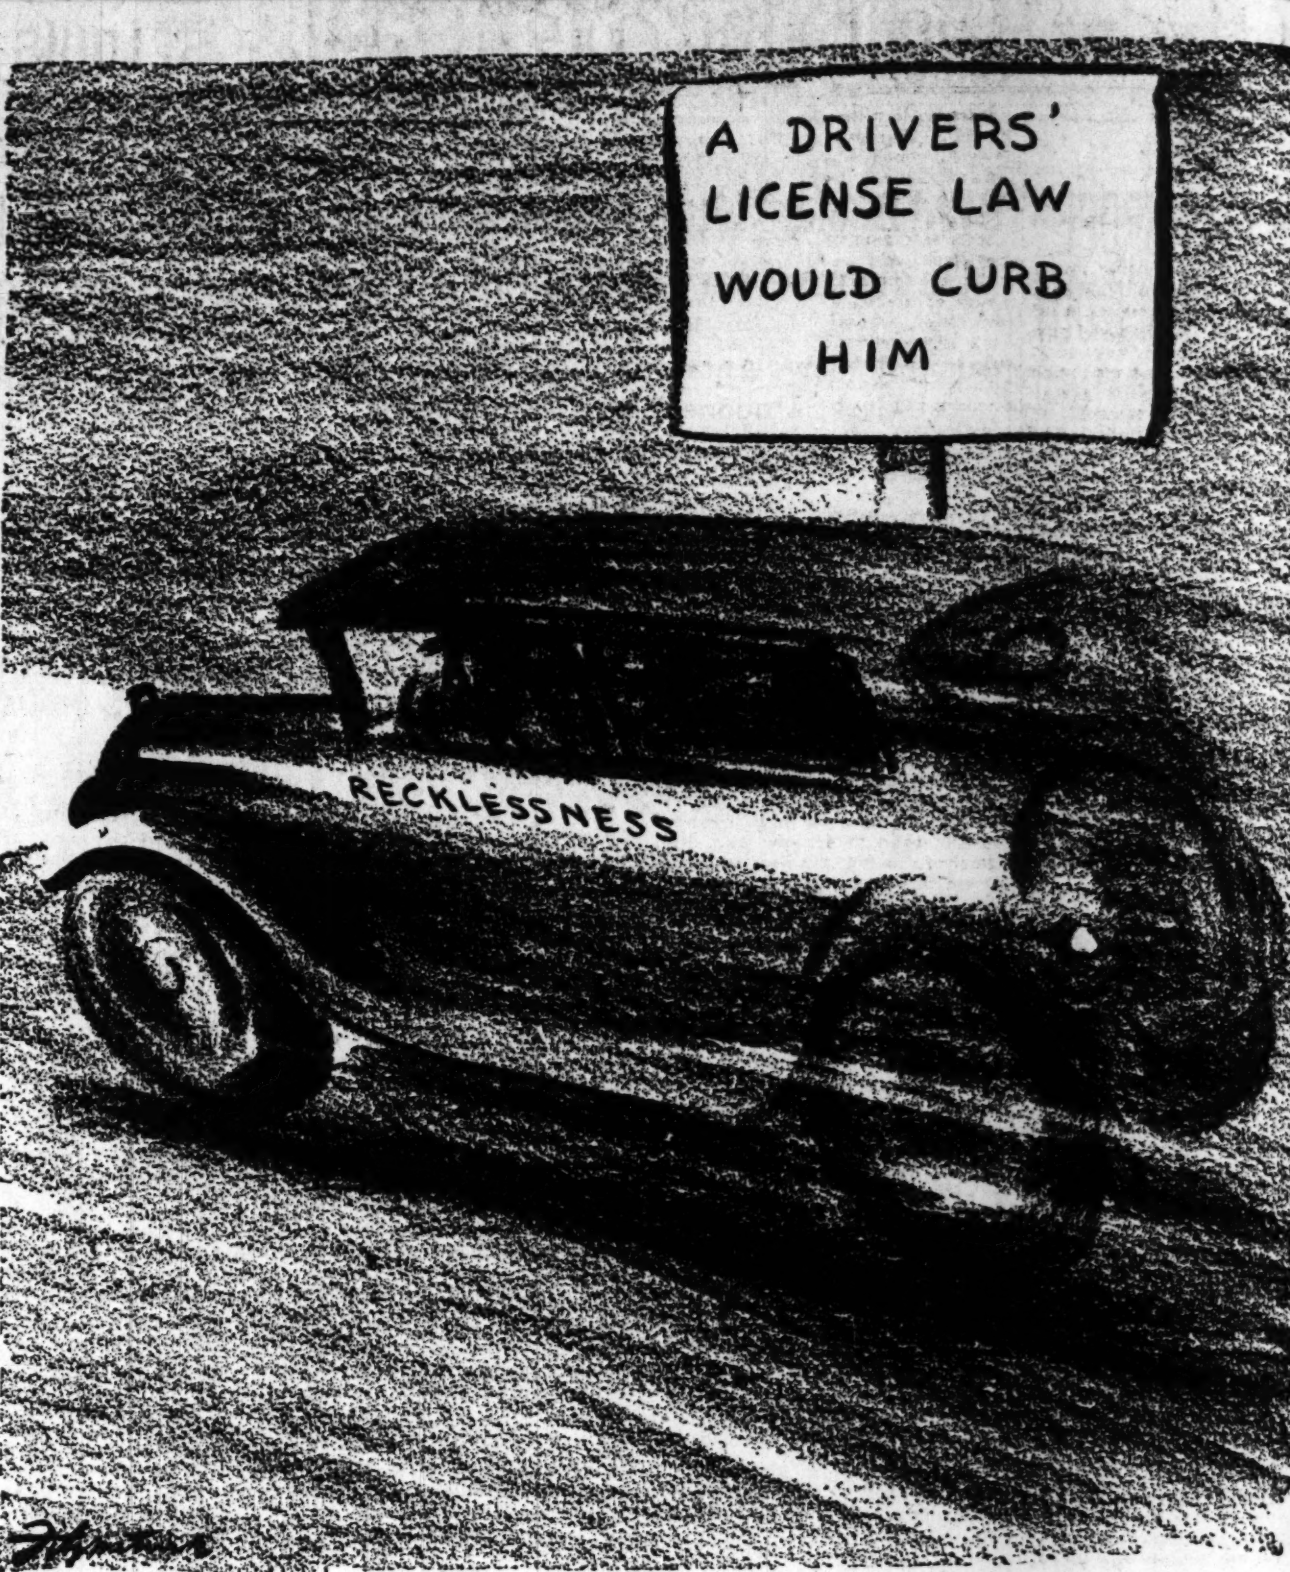

GOLD AND WILDER.

In its current issue the New Republic defends an article which it published a month ago by Michael Gold on Thornton Wilder. The article was devastating. It was intense, erudite and now and then, so it seemed to us, was struttingly clever. Certainly Mr. Gold was at his top stride in this philippic and he jolly well knew it. And that's all right. "If there be time but for a line, make it sublime," is an admirable motto for any craftsman; it is, we imagine, the birthmark of the true artist.

And infinitely apart as they may be in their philosophies, Mr. Gold and Mr. Wilder are brothers in the royal blood of genuine artistry. Perhaps neither of them recognizes that kinship. Assuredly Mr. Gold does not. He detests the lavender and lace of Mr. Wilder. He thinks, apparently, that it is the sole duty of a novelist to live now, to smash the tyrannies and foibles and tawdry respectabilities of the present. His own soul, as he has poignantly revealed, is outraged by the tragic realities of things as they are. He has no patience with intellectual idling in the galleries of the dim past.

In Mr. Gold's reckoning of values, one fears, beauty and grace of a well told tale are worthless except they serve the cause of justice. We need such flaming spirits. The Michael Golds are, in a way, our liberators. But we need entertainers, too. We need our Thornton Wilders to charm us with their elegance and with the sheer beauty of their genius. There must be a minute of romance occasionally in the swirling realism.

To Premier MacDonald she probably seems like Stepmother India.

Mr. Hoover and Wall Street

Mellon and Coolidge averted crash by cheerful statements on two occasions in 1928 when market dived; Hoover was expected to do the same last year; writer says his refusal to urge people to buy stocks ended era of speculation; thinks depression began because public still accepted Wall street as gauge of national prosperity.

Lawrence Sullivan in the Outlook.

THE dark days which came late in October, 1929, were trying times in the White House. In the immediate aftermath of the epochal stock market crash President Hoover felt for the first time the terrific impact of world consequences in a situation in which he himself was the pivotal figure. With all the world intent upon the ticker tape—an hour or two behind—the men behind the tape could look now in only one direction for possible action. If the President of the United States could not, or would not "save the country," a three-year dance was at an end, and the sad hour was come when somebody must dig deep to pay the fiddler.

Beginning on Oct. 24, petitions flooded into the executive offices urging some step to stem the mad orgy of deflation. Mr. Hoover sent confidential telegrams to 15 or 20 of his better known petitioners urging them to suggest some specific action. One by one the answers flashed back, the first within an hour. Balled down to their essence they said, as if in a single voice: "Issue a statement through the press urging the people to buy stocks!"

We are now far enough away from the crushing paper losses of October and November to appreciate the pathetic humor of this suggestion. Yet for all its amusing qualities it is well within the range of probability that before the financial history of the last year is written the incident may assume great stature, for President Hoover's instantaneous decision against a White House statement calculated to "bull" the plunging market, set up, for better or worse, an epochal milestone in our post-war economic history. It was an abrupt and final departure from the policy which had prevailed unbroken in the Republican administrations since 1921. Once made, it was well understood in advance, there could be no turning back.

In June, 1923, and again in October of that year, the market exhibited every symptom of the crash, only to be saved by timely statements from Secretary Mellon and President Coolidge, respectively. Following each statement the market regained all the lost ground and marched steadily onward to new heights.

For the moment it is unimportant whether the official plug would have held in October, 1929. The significant fact is that at the behest of the crisis leaders in Wall street seriously advised that course. We are bound to credit those leaders with the sincere conviction that, at least, it might have worked again. This fact is of overshadowing importance because it illuminates the basic conflict of viewpoint which has dominated all debate on economic policy during the post-war era—the conflict between that group which regards banking and finance as a business unit in its own right, and those who classify finance as a mere service functionary to industry and commerce.

Mr. Hoover's easy familiarity with the history and operations of the banking and credit structure gave rise, even before he took the oath of office on March 4, 1929, to his grave concern over the highly inflated stock market. A hint of this concern is found in a Boston campaign speech as early as Oct. 15, 1928, when he observed parenthetically: "Unsettled the credit structure, and it is not Wall street that suffers most; it is the little bank, the little factory, the little farm, the modest home." Nothing could have been further from the financier's attitude toward the credit situation as it then existed.

The market community was only too well aware that the big upward swing had been sustained for more than two years by a constantly increasing volume of brokers' loans, plus administrative plugging at intervals, which brought into the market ever widening circles of margin lambs. The dominating thought in Wall street was that the market could go on so long as speculative credit continued to expand. So long as the volume of production and trade, and everything was rosy and pleasant.

The first objective of President Hoover's immediate efforts to cope with the situation was to impress upon the country that the basic economic indices, that is, those reflecting the volume of production and trade, did not signalize depression. His first appraisal of the panic was a frank avowal that a long overdue period of stock market deflation was at hand, but that the stresses in all probability would be limited to fiscal adjustments within the market community. There was nothing on the economic horizon to indicate a widespread or prolonged business depression. But he frankly told the country that the absorption of money by Wall street had so connected commercial credits as to retard certain lines of business. Never since the first upward swing of the Coolidge boom in November, 1924, had this suggestion come from the White House.

Of paramount importance for the moment at the White House was the consideration that the panicky fall of Wall street should not wag the whole dog of business. It was believed that the stock market liquidation would require 60 to 90 days. Confidence would be maintained during this interval by the business conference—and then the storm would be passed.

The effect of the White House business conferences was almost magic as long as the gatherings commanded the headlines. When they were over, however, the business world gradually fell back to its old habit of gauging conditions almost entirely by the stock market. The effort to publicize the country out of a "state of mind" failed by a narrow margin only because in fancy, if not in fact, the stock board of Wall street still are the business barometers of the nation.

Soon, therefore, all of the traditional psychological factors of depression came in to play, and then it was that the country actually started on the downward dip of a major depression cycle. In consequence the bear side of the market became the money side for the professional speculators. Thus ended the "new economic era" seeded in the Coolidge boom of 1924 and flowered under the fiscal administration of the great Secretary of the Treasury since Alexander Hamilton. In the light of history, both Wall street and the world business community now accept March 4, 1929, as the end of that era.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.

HENRY ALLEN of Kansas didn't stay in the United States Senate very long, but the time he was there was full of eventful days for him. He came to Washington in April of 1929 to take the seat vacated by Vice President Curtis. And now, a little more than a year later, he is back in Kansas, a private citizen.

But he made the most of it while he was a Senator. He wasted no time in projecting himself into the limelight. That shiny tongue of his was loosed almost immediately, with the result that fur began to fly.

A newcomer to the Senate usually is seen and not heard. Allen's aggressiveness and activity were bound to stir up something, and he came to bat for the administration from the very start. And the old-timers got set for him.

THE clash over the debt-redeem clause in the farm bill during the special session last year is an illustration of how he managed to flick some of the veterans on the raw.

Borah and Copeland got the idea that Allen was insinuating that their pro-debtor vote was based on a desire to embarrass the President. It takes a man who is pretty sure of himself to challenge Borah in debate. For a newcomer to do so makes it the more daring.

Borah branded Allen's remarks as "a cowardly insinuation," rather strong statement for one Senator to make to another. Copeland let it be known that he felt the same way about the matter. But it was the sarcastic, hard-hitting Caraway of Arkansas whom Allen seemed to irritate most. In a running exchange of words one day, Caraway told Allen "that the grasshopper is not the only plague" to come out of Kansas.

THE Arkansas Senator also told Allen that the only conviction he had was "what the President wants." Whereupon Allen countered with the declaration that he would rather take "the thoughts of the President" than those of Caraway.

"The Senator will have his choice," Caraway snapped. "He must take somebody's opinion. He did not bring one here with him."

An Extraordinary Western

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

JOHN G. NEIHARDT, by W. R. Burnett. (The Dial Press, New York City, $2.)

It required considerable nerve and a little effort on the part of one reader of this unusual story of the old West, to get past the dust jacket with its appalling picture of a bad man such as a subnormal fourth-grader might have produced instead of a man of letters.

It is said that the author, W. R. Burnett, once Covarrubias became an artist never knew. Once it would have been quite safe to take for granted that a book thus marked another contribution to the enormous literature of Diamond back and his peers. It is true that distinguished critics have been estimating the author, W. R. Burnett, as the usual superlative terms and at his first two publications were promoted by book clubs. But it is only the majority that regards such acts as necessarily significant of anything but effective mismanagement. Still, such discrimination is now conspicuously involved in the business of literary huckstering, the valuable may be quite as often hailed with superlatives as the worthless or worse. This, happily, gives hope a 50-50 break; and one reader waded in with a faint heart not unprepared for the worst should appear.

But the worst didn't happen. That happened may not have been as bad, whatever that might be, as certainly it was something far superior to the conventional thing "Westerns."

"Saint Johnson" is a study of a man in Tombstone, Arizona, during his early days when Wyatt Earp, once famous peace-officer, formerly of Dodge City, Kan., and Doc Holliday, gun-fighter and gambler, were making their losing fight for law and order against the badness of the mines and ranches around about.

Burnett's narrative, though based upon the history of the Earp-Copeland feud, is fictionalized, but it is not falsified; rather, the medium of fiction serves to make sure a larger realization of the emotions and motives involved than the factual record could give.

In various ways Burnett's story is a shining exception among Western yarns. In the first place, the tale does not hinge upon a love affair, and the women that appear in its pages are no more conspicuous than women are likely to be in such a society. The affection involved is of the unobtrusive, sentimental but very profound sort, not the noisy, comrades, sharing danger, may come to feel for each other—and that, surely, may be one of the least selfish and noblest of human relations. In the second place, the tale ends with the defeat of the just cause and the hero's death, and the women that appear in its pages are no more conspicuous than women are likely to be in such a society. SAINT JOHNSON. By W. R. Burnett. (The Dial Press, New York City, $2).

It required considerable nerve and no little effort on the part of one reader of this unusual study of the old West, to get past the dust jacket with its appalling crude picture of a bad man such as a subnormal fourth-grader might have produced instead of learning his spelling lesson. But once he has passed the dust jacket, he will never know. But the worst didn't happen. What happened may not have been the best, whatever that might be, but certainly it was something far superior to the conventional thing in "Westerns."

"Saint Johnson" is a study of life in Tombstone, Ariz., during its heyday days when Wyatt Earp, the once famous peace-officer, formerly of Dodge City, Kan., and Doc Holliday, gun-fighter and gambler, were making their losing fight for law and order against the hoodlums of the mines and ranches thereabouts.

Burnett's narrative, though based upon the history of the Earp-Clanton feud, is fictionalized, but it is not falsified; rather, the medium of fiction serves to make possible a larger realization of the emotions and motives involved than the factual record could give. In various ways Burnett's story is a shining exception among Western yarns. In the first place the tale does not hinge upon a love affair, and the women that appear in its pages are no more conspicuous than women are likely to be in such a society. The affection involved is of the unobtrusive, unemotional but very profound sort, that loyal comrades, sharing danger, may come to feel for each other—and that, surely, may be one of the least selfish and noblest of human relations. In the second place, the tale ends with the defeat of the just cause and of the hero—keeping with a not inglorious principle illustrated in the works of the great ones from Homer down to us. In the third place, the hero is presented as no paragon of the conventional virtues, but as an intelligently imperfect man.

For a very good reason, after reading a really respectable Western story, comparison with Wister's "The Virginian" is inevitable. There is hardly any portion of "Saint Johnson" that reaches quite the dramatic intensity of the scene in which Transpa is killed; but a powerful mood is developed slowly toward the end of the book that the interested reader is not likely to forget.

If it is said that the story will be morbid, and no doubt it will make a fetching picture with plenty of homicide. Also, a Mexican hussy, whose business in the book is merely incidental, will be sure to assume a major role with plenty of seductive diodes. It seems a pity.

KRAKATOA, HAND OF THE GODS. By Capt. H. E. Raabe. (Brewer & Warren, Inc., New York City, $2.)

In his former book, "Cannibal Nights," Capt. Raabe dealt with his own adventures in the South Seas. Here he employs a powerful but undisciplined imagination in the creation of a fantastic romance out of the raw stuff of his personal experience. Krakatoa, the hero, is a white man who "goes alive" and becomes the fighting holy man of a wild tribe in Sumatra, wedding the Princess, of course.

The career of Krakatoa is a long one and sometimes rather confused in the telling, beginning when, as the incorrigible son of a stern Dutch father, he is sent on a voyage into the South Seas as a corrective measure. The captain and crew abuse him frantically. Finally, after many indignities, he takes under the protection of the Malays. With the aid of their magic he wreaks a horrible revenge upon his torturers, and utilizing a coffin as a canoe, disappears among the wild tribes, to emerge as a super savage.

Though a bit tedious in spots for lack of wise pruning, and not well organized, the tale is a holding one by virtue of its strangeness, and as a means of escape from boredom it is greatly to be recommended.

THE THIRD DEGREE. By Enmanuel H. Lavine. (The Vanguard Press, New York City, $2.)

Another exposure of corruption and brutality in our police and judicial systems, with special reference to the methods of torture employed in obtaining evidence. The author, who for a quarter of a century has been a night police reporter, states that 70 per cent of all convictions obtained in our courts are achieved by such methods. "The law," we are told, "stops at the green lights of a police station." It is a terrifying book, the general authenticity of which seems to be well attested.

INDIANS, IN TRIBAL DRESS, WED IN CHURCH CEREMONY

Native Rites, With Beating of Tom Tom, Precede Services at Sapulpa, Ok.

By the Associated Press. SAPULPA, Ok., Nov. 23.—The First Christian Church of Sapulpa resounded to the rhythmic beat of tom tom and the chant of the Creek Indian wedding ceremony yesterday when Miss Josephine Bruner became the bride of Anthony L. Battese.

Following the tribal ceremony, conducted by Chief Cayou, the regular church ritual was read by the Rev. Johnson Tiger, son of Moty Tiger, last elected chief of the Creek nation.

Members of the bridal party wore the picturesque Creek tribal costumes. The bride was clad in a doekin dress fringed with wampum prayer beads and the bridesmaids wore buckskin costumes. Head-dresses of eagle feathers, trailing to the ground, the adornment of tribal chieftains, were worn by the bridegroom and his attendants.

EX-JUDGE HOMER'S FUNERAL IS TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Services for Former Circuit Justice at Pilgrim Congregational Church.

The funeral of former Circuit Judge William B. Homer will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue. Interment will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Judge Homer, who was 81 years old, died of heart disease Wednesday afternoon in his apartment at the Branscomb Hotel, 5370 Pershing avenue. He was a native of Massachusetts and a graduate of Amherst College in the class of 1871. He came to St. Louis in 1872, and was associated in the practice of law with Clinton Rowell and Daniel C. Fisher. He was appointed to the circuit bench in 1909 by Gov. Hadley, and in the following year was appointed Ex-cise Commissioner of St. Louis. In 1911 he again was appointed to a vacancy on the circuit bench. He received a Republican nomination in 1912, but was defeated in the election. Mayor Kiel appointed him judge of one of the city police courts, and he was succeeded in that position by an appointee of Mayor Miller.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. E. Louise Homer; a son, Roland M. Homer, Federal Court Jury Commissioner, and two daughters, Mrs. G. P. Allen of Toronto, Ont., and Mrs. R. S. Crawford of Bronxville, N. Y.

President Has Turkey Dinner at Night After Attending Church With Wife and Sons.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—A turkey dinner at the White House attended by a few friends, brought Thanksgiving day to a close for President Hoover.

Mrs. Hoover and Allan, the latter home from Harvard for the holidays, however, had a box at the annual navy relief ball last night.

At 11 a. m. the President, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, Allan, Mrs. Edgar Rickard of New York, and her daughter, Peggy, and Mrs. Stark McMullen of Palo Alto, Cal., attended the Central Presbyterian Church and new one once occupied by Woodrow Wilson.

After the services Mr. Hoover laid the cornerstones for a new Sunday school building. A biting north wind was blowing and the ceremony was over the President's plausibly showed that he was chilled. He used the same towel with which President Wilson had laid the cornerstones for the church in 1913.

RARE PLANTS LOST IN FIRE

Assistant Police Head Succumbs at Philadelphia Exhibit Hall.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Fire last night swept the north side of historic Horticultural Hall in Fairmount Park, ruining priceless exhibits and specimens of rare plants gathered from all parts of the world.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

THOUGHTS while strolling: Bankrupt sale sign: "We made a terrible mistake." Mrs. Brock Pemberton suggests a Russian countess. Wonder if Mayor Walker can create without saying "very definite."

Libby Holman, a Cincinnati (O.) girl who made good in the city. Movie theater front with banners like a street carnival. Grand opera nearing the end. The screech has become a death rattle. Silvered spires like fingers clutching at the sky. Ruth Etting and Genevieve Cooper look alike.

With perfumes were as grand as their bottles. The jaunty ermine jackets, and perky berets. Don Prince, Palace press agent, and son of Arthur Prince, English ventriloquist. The first time I ever saw Zigfield wearing a white collar.

The Parisian tearoom owner—Rumplemeyer. The bored expression of Scotties. Not many birds disaffected with their jobs these days. Nobody brings so much joy or gets such little commendation as a letter carrier. So here's a full blown cheer for him.

Ex-cats and movie orchestras now playing in courtyards for pitched coins. Pink clouds brushing the west. I'd like to be smelling wood smoke in Missouri somehow. Montague Glass's very British accent. Adolph Zukor cries out loud at sad plays, they say. Who remembers when a kitchen was not a bog?

Tenth avenue features a hoosh dancer. The biting winds from the river. But soon April's laughter again and we'll whine about the humidity. Teament women with soiled puddles under their arms. Eaker-eyed girls dancing down Broadway to disaster. The Moes and Mannes, with tightly gripped cigars. Larry Fay's long face. Irene Bordoni's bangs. Ward Morehouse. Muriel Kirkland's red hair. Two fashionably dressed ladies quarreling.

A variant of social four-shuffle. Aing is aided by an agency in Paris that supplies broken down and decadent dukes, viscounts, Russian barons and sundry noble what-nots as dinner guests. The New Yorkers send their dinner lists to local English printed newspapers, clip them out and mail them back home. New York!

A D in morning paper: "Our breakfasts enchant. Bacon with the fragile crispness of spun glass. Bright yolks suggesting a sunset. Marmalade dripping nectar. Nuttinal brown toast and ambrosial coffee."

Parking, the droll mop! JOSEPH E. CORRIGAN is the only New York Magistrate in the Social Register as well as about the only one not issuing alibi announcements. He has a personal fortune and the underworld interests him—hence his occupancy of the post. Secretly he is said to have a hankering to write mystery fiction. He might specialize on some of his missing fellows.

are passengers on street cars now!

Cold and Throat Infections May Sit Right Beside You!

Every cold and throat infection is caught from somebody else. During the winter infection is more common than ever. Do the sensible thing—realize that every exposure to crowds exposes you to danger and act accordingly. A reliable defense is offered you in McKesson's Germicide. This is the new antiseptic of new germicidal power and penetrative ability. It revolutionizes all former standards of antiseptic mouth washes.

The "10-Second" Germicide

Kills germs faster than any ordinary preparation yet known.

And it reaches parts that other antiseptics miss. It penetrates the mucous membrane and reaches the germs that lie hidden underneath the outer layer of mucus. Hence its action is complete and thorough. Germicide is the best "ounce of prevention" you can use but if you have already caught a cold or sore throat, it will relieve it in fast time. Germicide is utterly harmless and most delightful to use. Also, it's economical. Costs less than dilute it more liberally, goes further. All McKesson Service Drugists and all independent drug stores sell Germicide. Get a bottle today and be forewarned against winter illness. Note the name, EXTOL—McKesson & Robbins product.

URGES THAT U. S. TRANSFER PUBLIC LANDS TO STATES

method of disposing of revenues from oil and gas leases.

Sale of power developed upon reclamation projects to repay costs of the reclamation, and division of later income into 10 per cent for the Government; 37 1/2 per cent to the States; and 52 1/2 per cent to the reclamation fund.

Flood control by the Government, where needed, under a policy similar to that pursued in the Mississippi Valley.

Irrigation and Highway Clauses.

Provision by Congress for a farm relief fund to repay irrigation districts through loans on the basis of appraised lands.

Continuance by the Government of the Federal highway program on a more equitable basis for States with great areas but of small population.

Interstate agreements covering water control and elimination of theories of Federal ownership and control, with the dismissal of all pending cases predicated upon such policies.

Recognition of State sovereignty in dealing with control, development and utilization of resources with the assistance of the Government where more than one State is involved.

Many of the major suggestions agreed upon by the committees were advocated by Nevada, in which lies nearly one-third of the remaining 178,969,446 acres of public domain.

Most of the larger units are in Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah and Wyoming. Smaller acreage is in North and South Dakota, Florida, Arkansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Washington.

Transfer of the land would not do away with the chief administrative duties of the General Land Office, as completion of surveys and other details would require several years, and other duties of the Land Office would be unchanged.

RAILROADS WANT OIL FIRMS TO SURRENDER PIPE LINES

Part of Legislative Program Being Framed to Curb Certain Industrial Practices.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A legislative program designed to eliminate what it considers unfair restrictions on railroads and to curb certain practices of other industries and transportation lines is being drafted by the American Association of Railway Executives.

The association represents 90 per cent of the railway mileage of the United States.

The action was forecast last week in the programs adopted by the executives and by the Railway Manufacturers' Association.

Charles C. Paulding, vice president of the New York Central Lines, let it be known today that the preparation of the legislative program was in progress.

One of the proposed acts, Paulding said, and one not included in the program outlined by the two associations last week, would compel the oil industry to divert itself of a $400,000,000 investment in oil pipe lines.

These pipe lines now cross much of the United States carrying oil direct from the fields to consuming points.

Under the commodities clause of the Interstate Commerce Act, Paulding pointed out, interstate transport by the railroads of any commodity other than timber, in which it is directly or indirectly interested, is forbidden.

The railroad also will seek regulation of freight and passenger carrying bus lines and will ask authority to operate such lines themselves. They will urge amendment of the Panama Canal act to allow railroads to operate steamship lines coastally.

ACQUITTED OF PARTICIPATION IN MOTOR FIRM HOLDUP

Youth Was Working in Store at Time of Robbery, Grocer

John Miesler, 19 years old, of 5556A, Easton avenue, was acquitted of participation in the $770 holdup Nov. 18, 1929, of the Guaranty Motor Corporation, 2188 Locust street, late Wednesday by a jury in Circuit Judge Green's court.

Testimony that Miesler drove an automobile for the robbers was given by Richard C. Walker, now serving 10 years in Booneville reformatory. His brother, Gus Walker, stood trial and is serving 30 years in the penitentiary.

No victim of the holdup could identify Miesler, and a grocer testified for the defense that Miesler was working in his store at the time of the robbery.

The petitions, originated among applicants on the long waiting list at the veterans' free employment bureau in the Federal Building.

NEWS CENSORSHIP IS REMOVED IN CUBA

One Havana Paper Resumes Publication—Machado Warns Editors to Print "Truth."

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Nov. 28.—Newspaper censorship was lifted, nominally at least, by President Machado yesterday. He announced that while he was removing the censors from their offices the papers would have to stick to the truth.

El Pais, one of the papers to suspend publication two weeks ago rather than submit to the censorship, announced it would publish today. El Mundo and Diario de la Marina have not determined upon a date for resumption.

The censorship was invoked when disorders in the capital led to the suspension of constitutional guarantees.

The Government took special precautions to maintain order today, which is the anniversary of execution of eight Cuban students by the Spanish in 1871. The day has a national significance among students even in normal times and it was though this year it might be made a pretext for disorders.

The Commerce School at Santa Clara was closed and a number of students were arrested. One of these was Luis Antonio del Castillo, member of a prominent family in Ranchuelo, against whom a charge of sedition was lodged.

All America Cables reported the censorship of its wires had been lifted on press matter this morning.

FRENCH OFFICIALS RESIGN FOLLOWING BANK CLOSING

Two Under Secretaries in Tardieu Government Await Parliamentary Investigation.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Eugene Lautier, Under Secretary of the Ministry of Fine Arts, and Henri Falcoz, Under Secretary of the Ministry of Public Works, resigned today. The resignations followed the mention of their names in parliamentary and financial circles in connection with that of Albert Oustric, whose bank recently closed.

In letters to Premier Tardieu both stated that their relations with Oustric were absolutely clean and above board, but that they were resigning in order to obtain full freedom of action to appear before a parliamentary commission investigating the failure of the bank.

The Tardieu Government was sustained later in the day on a vote of confidence demanded by the Premier himself, 303 to 14, the entire opposition, with the exception of the Communists abstaining.

It became known that Albert Oustric was arrested today on a charge of swindling dating back several years.

DRIVES 2000 MILES IN WAGON TO DINE WITH MOTHER, 84

Montana Man, 65, Foregoes Free Trip on Train for Thanksgiving Visit to Michigan.

By the Associated Press.

BIG RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 28.—Archie Whitehouse, 65 years old, of Missoula, Mont., arrived here by wagon to have Thanksgiving dinner with his mother, Mrs. Mary Whitehouse, 84, after an absence of 23 years.

Whitehouse is a retired railroad man and might have had free transportation but chose to drive the more than 2000 miles to his old home. Arriving at Menominee, Mich., he had intended to ferry his horses and wagon across Lake Michigan, but when he learned that it would cost $96, decided to go around the lake through Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

Notice that his signature as an heir was necessary before his mother could sell her farm near here prompted Whitehouse to make the journey back to Michigan. But after looking over the farm he advised against the sale.

DAIL EIREANN VOTES $125,000 TO DEVELOP DRUMM BATTERY

Device Recently Proposed Railroad Car for 36 Miles; Can Be Charged in 8 Minutes.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 28.—The Dail Eireann has appropriated £125,000 (about $125,000) for further development and tests of the Drumm electric storage battery. The appropriation was requested by Patrick McGilligan, Minister of Industry and Commerce, who said it was necessary to be successful as those of the past much could be expected of the battery. He added that it was patented in 24 countries.

Last August a railway car was said to have completed a trip of 36 miles, at times going as fast as 46 miles an hour, with a Drumm battery as its only motive power. Backers of the device predict it will revolutionize battery and transport practice. It can be charged in from eight minutes to an hour and gives quick acceleration.

POLICEMAN ALSO A PREACHER

Chicago Sergeant Has Operated Mission for Two Years.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Edward de Vries for two years has been a police sergeant by day and the pastor and sponsor of a gospel mission by night. The mission has an average nightly attendance of about 100, but the fact a police sergeant was not learned until a Thanksgiving feast was spread yesterday for more than 800 needy persons. Then it was discovered that de Vries had Vries said he got his idea when he been known in the district for some preached at missions while traveling time as "the missionary cop." De Vries his beat.

FOR FAKING IDENTIFICATION

Ruggiero Grieco, Former Italian Deputy, Held in France; Once Expelled From There.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 28.—Ruggiero Grieco, former Italian Deputy and Communist, described by the police as the mainspring of the Communist and anti-Fascist movement in France and perhaps in all Europe, was arrested last night on a charge of using forged identity papers.

Police said they got on the track of Grieco during an investigation into the shooting on Nov. 15 of an anti-Fascist named Sarti, allegedly shot by comrades as a traitor.

They said Grieco had a number of false papers bearing different names. He is general secretary of the Italian Communist party, director of the Communist review, "Il Stato Operato," and other newspapers clandestinely circulated in France. He was expelled from France in 1925.

Assistant House Leader Says Party Puts National Welfare First.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The assertion that regardless of the causes and responsibility for existing distressing conditions in the country, the leadership of the Democratic party "is more interested in the National Welfare than in seeking party advantage," was made yesterday by Representative McDuffie of Alabama.

"In this crisis," the assistant minority leader in the House said, "a broad national vision rather than a local or selfish one is needed and Democrats will, as they have in the past, put patriotism above partisanship." McDuffie said he could not construe the statement of a group of Democratic leaders, and more recently by Jettett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, as being "in any wise indicative or suggestive of an inclination to shirk duty or to avoid a single responsibility."

FORT MORGAN, Colo., Nov. 28.—Discovery of her suitcase in an irrigation ditch 10 miles east of Fort Morgan stimulated efforts of officers today in their search for Miss Enid Marriott, missing Wiggins (Colo.) school teacher. The suitcase, picked up yesterday by two boys on a hunting trip, was identified by articles of clothing and an insurance policy. Sheriff

OVERCOATS

The $50 kind, that will appeal to men who want the elegance of out-of-the-ordinary woollens

$35

We're no wizards — but we are selling $50 Overcoats for $35. There is no secret about how we do it, either. Right now the weavers of expensive overcoatings need business. They want our 26-store volume to keep their looms going. They get it, with price discounts far greater than the ordinary. That's saving number one! • • •

Then our own tailoring shops step in. They are manned by needleworkers skilled in the art of making costly clothes. Most of them own stock in our business. They keep Bond quality at its recognized high level. They keep expenses down. That's saving number two! • • •

And then, without any high-priced distributing system, and no middleman's profit, these Overcoats come direct to you through the Bond Stores. That's saving number three! • • • Cold facts like these are going to keep 850 smart men cozily warm this winter. At $50, the 850 Overcoats in this selection would be excellent values anywhere. At $35, they are the best reason to "buy now" we have seen, or heard, this year.

Remainder of the List Resists Unsettlement and Several Extreme Losses of 2 to 6 Points Are Reduced by Half in Late Trading.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Although the carrier shares found the rails greased on the downgrade in today's stock market, the remainder of the list resisted unsettlement, and several extreme losses of 2 to 6 points were reduced by half in the late trading.

The market in the main was lethargic, as was expected in the day and a half period between a holiday and weekend. The day's transactions aggregated only 1,750,000 shares.

Shares selling off 2 to 3 points recovering about half included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Goodyear, Pennsylvania Railroad, New York Central and New Haven, Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific sold down 6 and 4 points, the former to the lowest in six years, then recovered 2 and 2. Atchafalaya dropped 6 and recovered 2. Illinois Central sold off 4 to the lowest in about 30 years, then recovered a point. Republic Steel preferred lost 3 1/2. Otis Steel lost 2 points on omission of the dividend.

The leading commodity markets also sagged. Grains reflected in part the decline in foreign markets during the American holiday yesterday. Small exports were also a factor. Wheat futures, old contract, lost 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel, and corn 1 1/4 to 1 1/2. Cotton futures lost 5 to 10 cents a bale. Foreign exchanges showed the usual month-end trends in several directions. The Canadian dollar lost about half its recent premium of a little more than 1/4 of a cent. The Italian lira was again heavy. Sterling, however, was steady.

News Seems More Cheerful.
Business news appearing over the holiday seemed a shade more cheerful, but the market was evidently not impressed with it. Building contracts awarded during the third week of the month were substantially higher than during either of the first two weeks. Electric Power consumption for the week showed a gain of one-fifth of one per cent from the previous week. October railway operating income reports continued to show improvement over September, with an aggregate decline of less than 27 per cent from the like month a year ago, as compared to September's drop of about 30 per cent from that month in 1929.

Publication of a statement by Charles C. Paulding, vice president of the New York Central, describing the present predicament of the railroad as fully as serious as that which faced them in 1929, and demanding sweeping revision of the transportation act, was not expected to have provided impetus to the decline of the carrier issues, although Wall Street has been inclined to regard the determined stand being taken by rail executives for a lightening of their burdens, as encouraging. Mr. Paulding's assertion that the present difficulties of the carriers are due to fundamental changes in transportation, rather than the temporary effects of the business depression, tended to dissipate any cheer which might have been extracted from the October earnings reports, nevertheless.

Call Money Tighter.
The recent decline in railroad bonds has been an unsettling development. Call money was appreciably tighter, but this was regarded as more encouraging than otherwise, as it presumably indicated an increasing demand for funds for the holiday trade. Loans held officially at 2 per cent, and no concessions were available in the outside market, where funds have recently gone begging at 1 per cent.There are many attractive gift buying opportunities before you. PART FOUR.

WALL STREET RAIL SHARES HAVE SHARP SETBACK IN SLOW MARKET

Remainder of the List Resists Unsettlement and Several Extreme Losses of 2 to 6 Points Are Reduced by Half in Late Trading.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Although the carrier shares found the rails greased on the downgrade in today's stock market, the remainder of the list resisted unsettlement, and several extreme losses of 2 to 6 points were reduced by half in the late trading.

The market in the main was lethargic, as was expected in the day and a half period between a holiday and weekend. The day's transactions aggregated only 1,175,000 shares.

Shares selling off 2 to 3 points then recovering about half included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Goodyear, Pennsylvania Railroad, New York Central and New Haven. Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific sold down 4 and 4 points, the former to the lowest in six years, then recovered 3 and 2. Atchafalaya dropped 6 and recovered 2. Illinois Central sold off 4 to the lowest in about 30 years, then recovered a point. Republic Steel preferred lost 3 1/2.
Oils Steel lost 2 points on omission of the dividend.

The leading commodity markets also sagged. Grains reflected in part the decline in foreign markets during the American holiday yesterday. Small exports were also a factor. Wheat futures, old contract, lost 1 1/2 to 1 1/4 cents a bushel, and corn 1 1/4 to 1 1/2. Cotton futures lost 50 to 90 cents a bale.
Foreign exchanges showed the usual month-end trends in several directions. The Canadian dollar was about half its recent premium of a little more than 1/4 of a cent.
The Italian lira was again heavy.
Bentley, however, was steady.

News Seems More Cheerful.
Business news appearing over the holiday seemed a shade more cheerful, but the market was evidently not impressed with it. Building contracts awarded during the third week of the month were substantially higher than during either of the first two weeks. Electric Power consumption for the week showed a gain of one-fifth of one per cent from the previous week.
October railway operating income reports continued to show improvement over September, with an aggregate decline of less than 27 per cent from the like month a year ago, as compared to September's drop of about 30 per cent from that month in 1929.

Publication of a statement by Charles C. Paulding, vice president of the New York Central, describing the present predicament of the railroads as fully as serious as that which faced them in 1929, and demanding sweeping revision of the transportation act, appeared to have provided impetus to the decline of the carrier issues, although Wall Street has been inclined to regard the determined stand being taken by rail executives for a lightening of their burdens, as encouraging. Mr. Paulding's assertion that the present difficulties of the carriers are due to fundamental changes in transportation, rather than the temporary effects of the business depression, tended to dissipate any cheer which might have been extracted from the October earnings reports, nevertheless.
Call Money Tighter.

The recent decline in railroad bonds has been an unsettling development.
Call money was appreciably tighter, but this was regarded as more encouraging than otherwise, as it presumably indicated an increasing demand for funds for the holiday trade. Loans held officially at 2 per cent, and no concessions were available in the outside market, where funds have recently gone begging at 1 per cent.

tive gift buying oppor-

SLASHES HIS THROAT AND DIES

Henry Kuehl, 36, Succumb to Wound at City Hospital.

Kuehl, who suffered a nervous breakdown, slashed his throat with a butcher knife at his home Wednesday night.

USED RESINOL FOR ROUGH SKIN

Writes Miss Klug

"For some years I have had a rough and pimply skin. I tried many kinds of skin lotions and creams, but none of them seemed to do any good. One day I saw your advertisement for Resinol Ointment and sent for a sample. The results were so good, I bought a full size jar. It cleared away the redness and roughness, and healed every pimple. Now I always keep a jar on hand, and am glad to pass along a good word for Resinol."

(Signed—Miss Julia Klug, Loyal, Wis.)

Mexican Train Bursts in Flames After Collision; 18 of Troupe in Hospital.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 27.—Fourteen bodies yesterday were carried out of the charred wreckage of a circus train which backed into a car loaded with gasoline between Covarrubias and Rivera stations, near Irapuato, Wednesday, and a minute later was a mass of flames. Meanwhile, soldier and civilian posse scoured surrounding hills in search of two elephants, three lions and two jaguars which escaped from the menagerie when the wooden circus train went up in flames.

Eighteen more of the circus troupe's 60 members are in hospitals, most of them so badly burned by the flaming gasoline sprayed over their sleeping cars that their recovery is doubtful.

One of the maddened elephants which escaped from the burning ruins of the circus train lumbered through a hamlet five miles from Covarrubias this morning, giving the inhabitants the scare of their lives.

Only seven of the cars making up the train in which the Beas Circus was traveling, en route to Guadalajara, escaped destruction. The car immediately behind the engine left the track and toppled over an embankment after the collision with the gasoline car, carrying five other cars and two tank cars with it.

The train crew was without fire fighting apparatus to extinguish the flames started by the exploding gasoline. Railroad crews are still burrowing in the wreckage as there is no sure way of determining how many persons may have perished in the fire. It is thought that some of the performers who escaped may have gone off without leaving any word.

The scene at the wayside station where the train caught fire and the animals broke from their cages was described by rescuers who killed some of the animals before they made off into the wild surrounding country. On a track near the wreck a passenger train bound for Guadalajara stopped. Lions, frantically seeking escape from the flames, dashed into one coach, so terrifying the passengers that some of them plunged through windows to escape. Troops finally frightened off the maddened beasts.

The elephants stampeded after breaking from their cars, charging through the towns with everyone in their path running desperately for cover.

The Beas Circus annually visited the principal cities and towns of Mexico and also frequently made tours in South and Central America.

ASKS UNEMPLOYED PERSONS TO REMAIN IN OWN TOWNS

Mullaphy Travelers' Aid Acts on Advice Given by National Societies.

On receipt of advice from the National Association of Travelers' Aid Societies that migration of unemployed persons is intensifying industrial difficulties, the Mullaphy Travelers' Aid has suggested that jobless persons in this region remain in their own communities, where they have better chances of obtaining work.

In the communication from the national organization, based on reports from 124 cities in which it operates, J. Rogers Flannery, Pittsburgh, Pa., president, said: "Those out of work will need all the resources that come from friendship and residence not available to drifters into strange communities, each of which is concerned with the problems of its own people. The kindest advice that can be given such persons is to remain, if possible, in their home towns."

TWO TEXAS CONVICTS KILLED; ATTEMPTED BREAK FROM CAMP
Two Others Wounded and Guard Is Shot; Pair Overpowered Two Attendants

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 28.—Two convicts lost their lives in an attempt to escape while returning Wednesday to the State penitentiary from a wood-chopping camp. Two others and a guard were wounded.

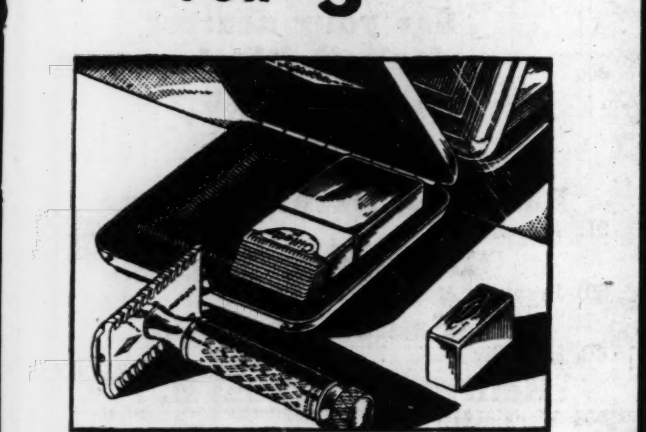

Wheeler McCulley, convicted burglar, and Tony Corona, convicted robber, were killed. Tom Shook, former police chief at Electric, serving a 35-year sentence for murder and robbery; Argyle Guyton, alias Jim Tally, convicted robber, and F. O. Ross, prison guard, were wounded.

McCulley and Corona, riding the prison truck with 25 other prisoners, leaped upon the two guards, Ross and Leonard Osborne, and overpowered and disarmed them with the aid of Shook and Tally who joined the attack.

The convicts were backing away from the truck, using Osborne as a shield when Bud Barnes, a third guard, drove up in an automobile and opened fire with a shotgun. Shook, who was guarding Ross, was wounded as was the guard. Ross freed himself, took Barnes' pistol and shot and killed McCulley and Corona.

RIVER CONTRACTOR'S BOAT BURNS AT ALTON, MAN HURT
Eight Escape in Scant Attire, Set Craft Adrift to Prevent Fire Spreading

One man was burned when a quartermaster of the Woods Bros. Construction Co., river contractors, was destroyed by fire at Alton early yesterday. The loss was $15,000.

Peter Keeran, the injured man, is in an Alton hospital with burns on the feet and face suffered in escaping from the boat with seven other men, who ran ashore in scant attire and set the boat adrift to prevent the flames from spreading to other equipment. The blaze, thought to have started from an overheated stove, was discovered by a watchman at 4:30 a. m. The boat, moored at the foot of Henry street, was carried down stream for about a mile before the hull sank.

ROBBERS LOCK UP MARSHAL
Vagrants Asking for Lodgings in Jail Then Loot Town

By the Associated Press.
DOWNNEY, Idaho, Nov. 28.—Marshal Dan Ware listened to pleas of four men for a warm place to sleep and finally admitted them to the city jail yesterday morning. Mike Wakeley found the marshal locked in a cell. A hack was used to liberate the officer. The seekers after a warm bed were missing. So was $21 of the marshal's money and $1100 worth of merchandise taken from several business houses.

After entering the jail the strangers overpowered the marshal, took his money and battered in the front doors of the mercantile establishments.

GENEVA CONFERENCE AGAIN DISAGREES ABOUT PUBLICITY
United States Objects to French Formula Providing Annual Report

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Nov. 28.—Publicity for land war materials today again proved a stumbling block for the Preparatory Disarmament Commission in drawing a general disarmament convention.

After a majority of the commission had disclosed it was opposed to an exchange of information regarding materials in reserve, it adopted a French formula which provides for an annual report of expenditures upon land material. This solution was unacceptable to the United States, which favors full publicity for materials both in service and in stock.

In voting against the French proposal, Hugh S. Gibson, United States representative, was joined by Italy, Sweden, Holland, Spain, Turkey and Russia.

Supporting France in opposition to direct publicity for reserve stocks by tabulation were all the French allies, and in voting for the French substitute they were joined by Japan, Peru, Persia and Norway.

The commission completed second reading of the draft and adjourned until Monday, when it will be taken up for third and final reading.

U. S. GIVES THE THREE R'S OF WILD LIFE CONSERVATION

They are Research, Reservation Establishment and Regulation of Hunters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Essential to saving America's vanishing game and wild life are research, reservation establishment and regulation of hunters, says the annual report of Paul G. Redington, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey.

"Research in the relationships, habits, production, control and conservation of wild life," he said, "is essential and fundamental."

"Reservations must be set aside for the long-time benefit of the wild life that is more and more being crowded out of its ancient feeding, breeding and resting grounds."

"Regulation of human operations in the use and enjoyment of wild life is essential to the immediate welfare of species that would otherwise be hunted to the point of extermination."

During the past year food-resources surveys of proposed migratory bird refuges were completed by the bureau on 183 units in 48 states, aggregating more than 2,700,000 acres.

HEIRS OF ST. LOUISANS TO GET $200,000 IN TAX REFUNDS

Claims Likely to Be Paid Without Contest as Result of U. S. Supreme Court Decision.

Approximately $200,000 will be refunded to heirs of 15 wealthy St. Louisans as a result of the decision of the United States Supreme Court early this week in the suit brought against the Government by heirs of William H. Harrison of Kansas City.

The Court held that real estate holdings were not subject to Federal inheritance tax where their holders died prior to Feb. 26, 1926, when the new Internal Revenue Act became effective. The new act provided for the levy of such a tax. Claims in the following estates made the subject of suits by St. Louis heirs, probably will be paid without further contest, according to Assistant United States District Attorney Stettin:

Ella Lamp Wright, $2571; Ella A. W. Clymer, $10,558; George K. Warner, $1218; J. Arthur Anderson, $4748; David I. Bushnell, $1935; Kenneth F. Burnes, $37,093; Elizabeth Schnalder, $1920; Clara B. Hart, $31,924; John Scullin, $4287; Thomas Reymann, $1889; Ludwig P. Hammer, $2197; Alfonso P. Ghio, $34,479; John C. Brandt, $21,271; Dexter Tiffany Sr., $684; and Amelia Cupples Scudder, $10,924.

MISSOURI G. O. P. COMMITTEE SPENT $62,071 IN CAMPAIGN

$3881 Still in Treasury; Most of Money Came From Officeholders.

Campaign expenditures of the Republican State Committee in the unsuccessful campaign preceding the November election were $62,071.11, according to the report of Samuel C. McClure, treasurer of the committee, filed in the office of the Recorder of Deeds in St. Louis. The total of contributions received by the committee was $65,952.60, a balance of $3881.49 remaining after bills were paid.

The fund was made up principally of amounts received from assessments of Republican jobholders and candidates, though there were a few larger contributions from men and women outside the officeholding class.

The larger contributors were Robert H. Lucas of Kansas City, $5000; Hunter Gary, Kansas City, $3000; Dwight F. Davis of St. Louis, Governor-General of the Philippines, $5000; Harry F. 13 children.

Knight, St. Louis, $1000; E. B. Clements, Republican National Committeeman, $725.

To county committees for the expenditure the State organization sent $30,335, and $2500 went advertising in newspapers. The remainder of the expenditure was office expenses.

There's a Tug at the Heart Strings

... as we think of closing our doors and saying "good-by" to the thousands and thousands of real friends we have made during the past 46 years.

It was back in 1884 that our business opened in a small way. What a host of happy memories come flooding back to mind! There's a touch of romance in recalling that many of those first customers, their children and even their grandchildren, too, still regard this store as their store. Three generations we have known and served faithfully and well.

Now—the end is here! We will soon close our books, turn the key and close our doors forever. But before we can do this, we must turn our present stocks into cash—regardless of cost or value.

That means the greatest sale in our entire 46 years! We're winding up our career in a sale that will be remembered in homes everywhere in this city for many a year to come. We're making this the crowning achievement of almost a half century's service to the public.

Therefore, it is with a real tug at the heart-strings that we come to the end of the trail—and say "Good-by, St. Louis—We're Through."

KIRKWOOD TEAM SURPRISES WITH 8 TO 6 VICTORY OVER WEBSTER

OVER THE TOP

Kirkwood High School with its accurate passes and fine end runs defeated Coach Roberts' Webster Groves team, 8 to 6, yesterday afternoon for his first victory over Webster since 1915. A crowd of 4000 saw the game in the Webster Stadium.

Kirkwood kicked off, but received the ball on an immediate return punt. Patrick went five yards through center to the 50, then he passed to Martin, who was downed on the 30. Martin's pass to Ruhl put the ball on the 20. Stork of Webster recovered a Kirkwood fumble, but Webster failed to do anything, and Kirkwood gained the ball on the 15, when Fraschi's punt was blocked. Patrick went around the right end to the three-yard line, and after Webster held for three downs, Brink finally took it over.

When Webster gained the ball on the 20 after a Kirkwood punt over the line in the second quarter, Bill

Freschi tried to punt out, but his kick was knocked back over the goal line for a safety.

Webster's only touchdown was scored on a fluke. The Robertsons worked like slaves to get the ball down the field to within 33 inches of the goal, where Kirkwood held for downs. When Hart tried to punt, his kick was blocked.

Picking the individual star of the contest is difficult, but Patrick of Kirkwood played a fine offensive game. Bill Frechl of Webster played his best game of the year.

Five U. S. C. Aces Injured in Game With Washington

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 28.—Five Trojan football warriors were convalescing in a hospital here today, the price the University of Southern California paid for its 32 to 0 Thanksgiving-day victory over Washington's hardy Huskies. The casualty list follows: Pincert—Badly bruised. Spurling—Twisted knee. Orville Mohler, quarterback—Minor head injury.

Bob Hall, tackle—Leg bruise, not serious. Byron Gentry, guard—Gash in leg, not serious. Despite all this, Coach Jimmy Phelan's invading aggregation, somewhat fiercer than its Southern California foes, could not stop the famed power offense, or penetrate an equally strong defense.

HELLRUNGS DEFEAT GILLESPIE SOCCER TEAM, 4-1, IN CUP MATCH

LOCAL ELEVEN TAKES IT EASY AFTER GETTING OFF IN FRONT

By Herman Weeks.

Tate Brady's Hellrungs had a good workout for the coming first place battle with the Tablers in the second round national challenge cup soccer match against the Gillespie (Ill.) eleven at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon. The Hellrungs won, 4 goals to 1, in a contest attended by not more than 300 persons.

The St. Louisans scored all their goals in the first half. In the closing period, they were almost entirely on the defensive, being content to maintain their margin. There were very few raids by the Hellrungs in the closing period. While Gillespie held the Hellrungs without a goal in the second half, this was due more to the tactics of the locals than to improvement in the visitors' play.

That the reason of Brady did not roll up a larger total was due mainly to the fine work of "Goalie" Hendron. He made many fine stops and proved the entire Gillespie defense. The two fullbacks were pitiful. In fact, the eleven might have saved the U. S. F. A. a bit of expense by leaving them in the mines across the river. As aids to Hendron, they were of no use. Center Halfback R. Ellis and Inside Right Forward J. Ellis were the only ones besides Hendron who even looked like soccer players.

Weak Play Helps Locals. Weak play on the part of the Gillespie backs enabled the Hellrungs to score after 24 minutes of play, Hanson sending the ball into the net. After both fullbacks had made mistakes on trying to clear a pass from O'Reilly. Four minutes later, Hanson breasted in the second Hellrung goal, after Hendron had made a fine clearance of a hard shot from O'Reilly. Hendron had the misfortune to punch the ball against Hanson in clearing. Hart counted the third goal, while O'Reilly banged through the fourth after Hendron had given another fine exhibition of goal-keeping, warding off no fewer than four hard shots.

Gillespie scored its only goal after the second period was seven minutes old. Referee Murphy awarding a penalty, when Jimmy Nolan fouled. J. Ellis made good on the shot, although had Bertel stood still instead of jumping around, he would have been direct in the path of the ball. After that with the Hellrungs doing little more than playing defensive football, Gillespie had several other openings. But the forwards thought it was basketball. Instead of kicking, they tried to flat the ball through. Once they succeeded, but Murphy would not permit the goal and then there was a roar from the Miners.

The Hellrungs are now in the third round of the competition. The next opponent for the eleven has not been decided, but it will likely be one of the rival clubs in the St. Louis League.

HARRISON DEMANDS IMMEDIATE UNEMPLOYMENT LEGISLATION

Mississippi Proposes Congress Deal With It First; Against Forcing Extra Session.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Immediate action on unemployment legislation was demanded today by Senator Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, who concurred with the party leaders in voicing opposition to any movement to force an extra session.

Harrison also proposed that votes be permitted on the legislative program advanced by the Republican Independents, including the Muscle Shoals measure and a constitutional amendment to change the short sessions meeting time of Congress.

"But even if the administration refuses to permit legislation, to be passed dealing with these important questions," he said, "I shall not feel justified in co-operation in any movement to block the passage of this Congress of the general supply bill."

Harrison's views concurred with those expressed by Senators Robinson of Arkansas and Walsh of Montana, leaders of the Senate Democrats.

The Mississippi Senator said he believed, however, that an extra session should be called by President Hoover. Responsibility for such an action should be left with the Chief Executive, he contended.

Harrison said the country expects immediate unemployment legislation and proposed that Congress deal with it first.

As ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee, he suggested that the amount of the sinking fund set aside each year for public debt retirement be decreased, with provision for retirement of the debt over a longer period.

5-YEAR STUDY OF FAUNA OF CHINA BEGINS TOMORROW

Field Museum Party to Hunt Giant Panda and Takin in Szechwan Province.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 23.—A five-year exploration of the mountains of Szechwan Province for study of little known animal life will be begun tomorrow by F. T. Smith of Long Island, N. Y., representing the Field Museum of Chicago.

Smith will be the only white man in the expedition. Five others will be Chinese taxidermists and photographers. Native hunters and trappers will be employed within the wilds of Szechwan.

Smith says the object is to study the distribution of fauna over Southeast Asia—the first undertaking of its kind. The party plans to return here next June, ship specimens to Chicago and to the Szechwan. The immediate purpose is to obtain specimens, both living and dead, of the giant panda, an intermediate animal between bears and raccoons. The first specimens were obtained by the Roosevelt brothers in the same area for the Field Museum in 1928. The expedition will hunt also the takin, allied to the goat and antelope families, and the golden-haired monkey.

EDITOR WROTE OWN EPITAPH

led by Pastor at Funeral of Richard Howell of Bridgeport, Conn.

By the Associated Press.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 23.—An epitaph written by himself shortly before his death was read today at the funeral services of Richard Howell, editor of the Bridgeport Herald for the last 40 years. Howell's epitaph, read by the Rev. E. J. Craft, of Christ Episcopal Church, follows:

I want no grave to hang upon the door when I die.

I want no bell to toll the way to where I lie.

I want no sorrowful prayers unheeded to him who has died.

I want no flowers, the bees, the birds, to be around the day I die.

I want a bird to sing his song of evening and low and low and low.

I want a flower to bloom around the place I lie.

I want a flower to bloom upon the mound where I lie.

Newspaper men and officials of the State attended the services.

MINERS REJECT 'SPREAD OVER'

English Schedule Called for 90 Hours a Fortnight.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The miners' conference today rejected a large majority the "spread over" principle which would permit the mine owners to run their properties on a schedule of 90 hours a fortnight.

The spread-over schedule would replace the rigid seven and one-half hour day which becomes effective Dec. 1. It was proposed by owners in North Wales, Cumberland, Bristol, Leicestershire and North Staffordshire. The conference also recommended that all other districts should consider giving notice for a national strike in the event of a stoppage of work in any one district.

RECEIVERSHIP FOR BROKERS

Assets of John Monroe & Co. $3,910,000, With $7,100,000 Assets.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Receivership for John Monroe & Co., brokerage house, with offices here and in France, was made permanent today by Federal Judge Coleman.

Liabilities of the company total $3,910,000 against assets of approximately $7,100,000. The Trust Co. was recently named temporary receiver. The receivership was precipitated by a run of the Paris office of the company which was followed on Nov. 8 by a run on the New York office. It was brought to prevent possible financial liquidation of the assets. John Monroe & Co. has been in business since 1834.

Sees First Movie at 90.
TOMS RIVER, N. J., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Cornelia Brinley of Lanoka Harbor, 90 years old and a friend of John D. Rockefeller Sr., saw her first movie Thursday. Her only comment was "Marvelous." Rockefeller, learning that her age and birthday were near his own, made her acquaintance on one of his visits to his Lakewood estate.

GRAND JURY FAVORS POLICE VACATIONS

Urges Day Off a Week Also for Members of Force in Praising Their Activities

A recommendation that an annual vacation of one or two weeks besides one day of recreation a week be granted St. Louis policemen is made by the members of the October grand jury, who returned their final report before Circuit Judge Calhoun today. Police-men now receive two recreation days a month with pay, all full-time being at their own expense. "It has been proved in the industrial world that shorter hours and vacations increase efficiency," the report states. "Police-men perform many hours of extra duty during a year, and spend much time in court and, in the opinion of this grand jury, are entitled to more leisure time." The report praises the St. Louis police facilities, especially the radio department, and contains the recommendation for further development of radio in combating crime. The investigation by the grand jury of alleged violations of the anti-trust statutes in the electrical industry in St. Louis is dealt with in the report and the indictments against Orville E. Jennings, an international vice president of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and Chester H. Chapline, a contractor, voted several weeks ago, were formally returned. The report declares that evidence presented showed practices in the installation of electrical work here that are in violation of the anti-trust statutes, and asserts that there are other participants to some extent, besides Jennings and Chapline.

The grand jury heard 202 witnesses and returned 35 true bills and 10 no true bills. It inspected police headquarters and the city jail and in its report compliments Warden Primavera for the manner in which the jail is conducted.

PARIS AVIATION EXPOSITION

Five American Firms Among Those Having Exhibits.
By the Associated Press. PARIS, Nov. 28.—The trans-Atlantic veteran "Question Mark," and the still unfired air liner Do-S are among those on display at the twelfth annual international aviation exposition which was opened here today. Laurent Eynac, the French Air Minister, presided at the opening ceremonies. Five American firms are exhibiting accessories, but most of the display comes from Germany, Great Britain and Poland.

Expelled Patriarch Dies.
ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 28.—The former ecumenical patriarch, Constantine VI, whom the Turks expelled from Constantinople in January, 1925, on the ground that though born in Turkey he was a Greek National and subject to repatriation, died today in a refugee settlement outside of Athens.

Be sure she reaches for SUNSWEEETS and not just prunes

MOTHERS know the value of these juicy sweetmeats for the lunch box and for the bite after school. No need to cook them. SUNSWEEETS are a treat just as they come from the carton. They are just sugar-nipe fresh fruit with the extra moisture removed and nothing added but sunshine. Always fresh, thin-skinned, tender, and full of natural fruit sugar, mineral salts and the valuable vitamins.

Triple-sealed in 1- and 2-lb. cartons.

There is as much difference in prunes as there is in fresh fruits.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Simple Dishes for the Days Immediately Following a Feast Day.

A shoulder of lamb roast, from which the bone has been removed, is used for Monday night. The meat may be stuffed, or simply tied firmly so that it can be readily sliced. There should be enough left over from this to serve minced or creamed for the next night.

Wash six medium sized white potatoes and bake in a hot oven—450 degrees—for 40 minutes or until tender. Remove from the oven, cut a slice from the top of each and scoop out most of the inside. Mash the pulp and mix with one tablespoon of butter, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika and two tablespoons milk. Whip until light and fill each potato half full. Put a large spoonful of creamed fish flakes or creamed cold meat on top of mashed potato, sprinkle lightly with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes, or until brown.

Caramel Layer Cake.
For two medium sized layers, cream together one-third cup shortening and one cup sugar. When well blended add one whole egg and one egg yolk and beat to a smooth cream. Then stir in one cup milk. Sift two cups cake flour with one-fourth teaspoon salt and three teaspoons baking powder. Add to the liquid mixture and stir in one teaspoon vanilla. Divide the batter into two greased layer-cake pans and bake in a hot oven—450 degrees—for 15 minutes or until firm and delicately brown. Cool and put together with caramel icing.

Caramel Icing.
Mix one and one-half cups brown sugar with one-half cup water and stir over a slow fire until the sugar is dissolved. Then boil without stirring for eight minutes or until the mixture leaves a long thread when it is dropped from the spoon. Remove at once from the fire. Beat two egg whites until stiff, then pour the hot syrup in a thin stream into the egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until stiff enough to spread without running, adding one teaspoon of vanilla during the process. One-half cup chopped walnuts or pecans may be stirred into the icing before spreading on the cake, or the icing may be sprinkled with grated coconut or chopped nuts.

Baked Cherry Pudding.
Drain one can of pitted, sour, red cherries, save the juice. Pour sauce and spread cherries in buttered baking dish. Beat the yolks of three eggs until light, add one-half cup sugar and continue beating until mixture is a very light cream. Stir in one tablespoon lemon juice and two tablespoons cold water. Sift one and one-quarter cups flour with one teaspoon baking powder and add. Next fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and pour batter on top of cherries. Bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes. Serve warm with a sauce made from the cherry juice slightly sweetened and thickened with a little cornstarch.

Seafoods Are Wholesome.
Salmon is a nourishing and healthful food. One pound fresh salmon will furnish 49 per cent of the protein a man needs daily, and it is said that the nourishing quality of canned salmon is even higher, on account of the bones being eatable.

USE FOR LEFTOVER TURKEY

Croquettes Are Always Relished by the Family.
Chop cold turkey enough to make two cupsful. Melt three tablespoons butter or cooking fat, stir in four tablespoons flour and when well blended add one and a half cups milk. Cook until thickened and smooth, then add the turkey, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon minced parsley, one beaten egg and pepper to season. Let mixture cool and when cold shape into six or eight oblong croquettes. Roll these in fine stale bread crumbs, then in one egg that has been beaten and diluted with one tablespoon cold water. Roll in crumbs again and cook until brown in deep fat that has been heated to 350 degrees, or until it will brown a small piece of bread in half a minute. Drain and serve hot. Serves four.

GRANDMA'S GINGER SNAPS FOR THE COOKIE JAR

Heat one-half cup dark molasses in a saucepan with one-half cup shortening. When just at the boiling point, remove from the fire, stir in one-half cup sugar, and gradually add two cups flour stirred with one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking soda, one tablespoon ginger, one teaspoon cinnamon. Add enough more flour to make a dough that is just too soft to handle. Chill thoroughly, which will stiffen it so that it can be rolled. Take about one-fourth of the dough at a time on a lightly floured board and roll as thinly as possible. Shape as desired, place on a lightly greased baking pan and bake in a moderate oven—350 to 375 degrees—for about 5 minutes, or until delicately browned on the edges. Save the scraps from each batch of dough rolled out and roll them all together at the end, as they will probably need rechilling. Keep the dough that is not being rolled in the icebox. The chilling is necessary to make these cookies crisp and to enable you to roll them thin. Makes about six dozen small cookies which will keep a long while if stored in a tin box or in layers in a cookie jar, using waxed paper between the layers.

PLANNING MEALS FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

Cold Weather Calls for Foods That Are Sources of Heat and Energy.

December weather brings increased appetites and a need for heartier and more substantial meals. This has been taken into consideration in meal planning. Starchy foods, and those containing larger amounts of fat are the best sources of heat and energy. In the warm weather we seek in a measure to avoid these, but now they should be included rather liberally in the diet. Sweet potatoes, preserves, honey and syrups will prove popular either on the breakfast or luncheon table. If the housewife has a home-made supply of these, so much the better, but if not, do not hesitate to use the very excellent commercial varieties that are to be found in any good food store. Salads are almost as important in the winter diet as they are at any other time of year. Vegetables and the winter fruits may be used to give the variety that is difficult to get in the salad greens. Lettuce and cabbage can be bought in most places all year round, and raw carrots, turnips, celery, onions, green peppers may be used to supply a good variety of minerals and a good supply of the so necessary vitamins.

With Thanksgiving day occupying the center of the stage, do not forget that the days following that of feasting must be planned for just the same. It is better to make these meals rather simple, and an effort has been made to do this as a study of the menu will show. A roast loin of pork is suggested for Sunday dinner, and to add to its flavor, as well as to aid its digestion, a tart fruit, in this case plums, is served with it. Canned plums may be stewed down in a sauce or used whole, as suits the fancy. Sweet potatoes browned in the pan with the meat and creamed celery give a good flavor combination for the pork. A pineapple pie is used for dessert, though one of any other fruit would serve just as well. Have the pork loin well cracked to make carving easier, and cook the meat slowly, allowing 30 minutes for each pound. Lamb is inexpensive and fine in flavor this year. Some cuts are much less expensive than others, and when Thanksgiving dinner had to be provided for in the family budget it is a good plan to take advantage of these cheaper cuts. On Wednesday veal chops are used for the meat course. These may be either rib or loin, and are best if they are browned quickly, then the pan covered and the meat cooked rather slowly for 15 or 20 minutes.

ALMONDS USED IN COOKERY IN ALL HISTORICAL ERAS

In earlier times almonds were very generally used in fine cookery almost to the exclusion of other nut meats. After a reign of years, on Wednesday veal chops are used for the meat course. These may be either rib or loin, and are best if they are browned quickly, then the pan covered and the meat cooked rather slowly for 15 or 20 minutes.

Ingredients needed are one pound powdered sugar, two tablespoons flour, one-fourth cup cold water, one and one-half cup shortening, two whole eggs, four egg yolks, additional. One pound blanched almonds, one-half cup sugar and six apples. Cream the shortening with the powdered sugar. Beat in the whole eggs. Then work in, one at a time, the egg yolks. Mix in the flour. When well worked in add the pulverized almonds. Knead together with the hands for at least 15 minutes. Grease a baking dish and spread the bottom and sides with the almond mixture, leaving enough to cover the top. Peel and slice the cooking apples. Boil until tender in the water and one-half cupful of sugar. Mash slightly and pour into the center of the lined baking dish. Cover the top with a sheet of almond paste. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Serve with heavy cream. This pudding can be served twice, once hot and once cold.

Apple Sauce.
Cook parings, cores and one large chopped apple in water; to cover. Strain juice. Add the juice of one lemon and sugar in the proportion of two-thirds of a cupful to one cup of juice. Cook until it jellies and pour over baked apples. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

BUFFET TEAS ARE INFORMAL AFFAIRS

Ideal Way of Entertaining Selected Groups of Friends or Acquaintances.

The feast day afternoon is becoming a popular time for bringing together a group of friends for tea, or for a gathering of the young folks at home from school and college. In most homes on these days dinner is served as an early afternoon meal—about 2 o'clock. This leaves one with a pleasant relaxed feeling in the late afternoon and generally feeling in a good mood for company.

Buffet Tea Popular.
A buffet tea may be served anywhere from 5 to 7 and should be kept quite simple but just as attractive as it can possibly be made.
Arrange the table with plates, cups and silver ready for service.
A centerpiece of flowers or fruit and tall candles will give the necessary touch of color and festivity.
The menu, unless the day is a very cold one, need not contain any hot food that might require last-minute preparation. An assortment of sandwiches, a large supply of a well-flavored fruit beverage, hot tea, coffee or chocolate, an assortment of small food cakes and cookies, salted nuts, candies and fresh fruit are really all that is necessary, though a salad, especially one of the jellied fruit varieties, may be added if desired.

Assorted Sandwiches.
The assortment of sandwich filling should contain one or two that are rather substantial, for even after a hearty dinner some of the guests will have good appetites. Sliced turkey, mayonnaise with lettuce, deviled ham or tongue, or shrimp or lobster paste with lettuce may be used for the more substantial fillings.

For the light ones the popular open sandwiches are good, especially if they contain some made from small rounds of graham bread spread with cream cheese and decorated with crossed strips of pimento and a pecan nut meat placed in each of the four sections that are formed by the pimento.

Rounds of white bread that are spread with dates chopped to a paste and mixed with orange juice are also good, as are oblong pieces of white bread spread with a thin layer of anchovy paste and decorated with thin slices of stuffed olive.

All these sandwiches may be made early in the morning and put on plates, then covered with a damp towel or napkin. This keeps them moist.

Homemade Small Cakes.
The cakes served need not be of the expensive variety. Homemade small cakes, or squares of sponge cake, or date bars or many kinds of cookies are nice.

Concerning Cauliflower.
Creamed cauliflower can be served plain or on slices of toast.
Chopped parsley or lemon juice can be added to the sauce just before it is poured over the cauliflower.

The U.S. Government Safeguards MEAT...

Perhaps you had the impression that all meat was Government inspected. Such is not the case. The U. S. Government has authority only over meats from packing plants whose products enter into interstate commerce. Here in Greater St. Louis, only about half of all meat sold is Government Inspected.

To receive this Government seal of approval, all cattle, hogs, sheep, etc., must pass a thorough examination, both before killing and after. This examination is made by trained U. S.
Government veterinarian experts.

The little Government circular stamp in purple, on cuts of fresh meat; and the phrase "U. S. Inspected and Passed by Dept. of Agriculture" on packages of meat products, such as hams, bacon, sausage, lard, etc., is of tremendous importance to you. It is absolute assurance of meat from healthy animals:
meat that is clean, wholesome, edible.

The whole story of Federal meat inspection is a big one—an interesting one—a vitally important one. We will tell it to you, in frequent messages in this newspaper. Look for them. In the meantime, to absolutely insure yourself against meat from diseased animals, buy only meat and meat products which are Government Inspected—bearing the Government stamp or phrase of approval.

Any retail butcher who handles Government Inspected meat will be glad to show you the Government stamp on the meat in his cooler or on his block, and the Government phrase on packages of meat products. Ask YOUR butcher to do so.

APPLES ARE A WHOLESOME

AND BENEFICIAL FOOD

Autumn's Favorite Fruit Has Been Popular Since Adam's Time.

Measured by the cost of producing, the apple is, perhaps, the cheapest article of diet. The fruit should be eaten to a much greater extent than it is at present, because it is nutritious and wholesome.

Fully four-fifths of the ripe fruit is water and one-fifth solid material. About 15 per cent of the apple consists of nutritive materials. There are very small quantities of protein and fat, both not exceeding 1 per cent, while more than 14 per cent of the ripe fruit consists of carbohydrates in the form of sugar. The food value of the apple, therefore, depends almost entirely upon this sugar.

The flavor of the apple is determined both by the quantities of sugar contained therein as well as by certain ethereal oils, and by a substance which is common to most fruits, known as tannin.

The quantity of tannin in the apple is so small it produces no ill effects whatever. On the contrary, physicians and hygienists are agreed that the apple is a very beneficial food to eat. In that, it promotes a very vigorous digestion.

Scott's Sweet Shortbread.

This is a nice afternoon tea delicacy made with one pound butter, one-half pound powdered sugar, one teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract and four cups pastry flour. Cream butter thoroughly; add sifted sugar gradually with flavoring, creaming well. Work in sifted flour gradually; chill. Roll on slightly floured board to one-half inch thickness. Cut in squares; prick with fork and bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

The turkey itself will keep for days in a good refrigerator, while vegetables will retain all of their original crisp freshness until the dinner is served.

One of the chief advantages brought by automatic refrigeration to the American housewife is the saving made possible by quantity buying. Instead of the former habit of mouth small purchases of perishable foods, the housewife now can plan her meals for a week ahead and buy all the necessary foods at one time. This advantage also enables her to avoid crowded shopping days and do her marketing at her own convenience.

ELECTRICAL UNION LEVY COST PUBLIC $330,000

Jury Estimates $83,000 Profit to Contractors and $250,000 Premiums Under Insurance Plan.

FORCED WAGES FOR ELEC. TIME AS PENALTY for Charge Since July 15, 1929, Set at $1,660,000 Based on Jennings and Chapline Indictment.

The insurance phase of the work-agreement between electrical workers' Local Union No. 1 and the St. Louis building public approximately $330,000, of which $100,000 represented profit to contractors, the October 15 indictment estimates in the indictment against Orville E. Jennings and H. Chapline, voted Nov. 7 formally returned in Circuit Court Friday.

The indictment, as has been told, charges Jennings, an international president of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and Chapline, an electrical contractor, with conspiracy to restrain trade in violation of the State anti-trust statute. Quo warranto proceedings now pending in the State Supreme Court to oust the Electrical Employers' Association, Electrical Approval Bureau, Electrical Protective Association and Electrical Lumber Bureau, organizations mentioned in the indictment.

Insurance Estimate $250,000.

The grand jury estimates that the total sum paid for life and disability insurance and old age benefits at the premium rate of $2.49 per year for each union man employed since July 15, 1929, is about $250,000. To this, it is alleged, the contractors added a profit of 33-1/3 per cent, or $83,000, bringing the total which the public paid for insurance and profit on insurance premiums, to $333,000.

"Builders and others paying same received no return, benefit or gratification whatever from said sum," the indictment charges, "and the cost of each did increase the market price of electrical products, commodities and articles in St. Louis, the indictment states.

Using the grand jury estimate, the labor charge for electrical work in St. Louis since July 15, 1929, is computed at $1,660,000, including 33-1/3 per cent profit, which the State alleges is added by the contractor after estimating the cost of the job. The profit on labor alone, the indictment charges, was $250,000, of which Jennings and Chapline readily admit receiving 10 per cent, $25,000, for setting up and operating the Electrical Protective Association to handle the insurance.

The indictment states that insurance policies were issued to contractors and nonunion employees, as well as to the union workmen. The plan acted as an enforcement device in carrying out the objects of the agreement, the state charges. Contractors supply the union with weekly "shop reports," giving the names of the workmen employed. It also submit monthly receipts to the Protective Association showing the insurance premiums are paid, it is alleged.

Threats Against Contractors.

Unwilling contractors are forced to submit to the arrangement through threats to withdraw union labor from their shops, according to the indictment. In some instances men were withdrawn, and the contractor was forced to pay wages for the idle time of these employees as a penalty and condition for the restoration of the firm in the good graces of the union, the indictment charges.

In addition to the profit charged on labor, it has been charged by the state that contractors extend the 22-1/3 per cent to include the material used in a contract, the amount of which is estimated by the Electrical Listing Bureau, which also computes the number of labor hours for a job. The indictment charges that the estimates of the Listing Bureau were usually inflated to all contractors bidding on a given job. Prior to reaching the Listing Bureau, plans and specifications must pass the Approval Bureau, which has power to approve or reject plans, the indictment states.

In its report to Circuit Judge Calumet, the grand jury says it examined a large amount of documentary evidence and heard a number of witnesses, and that the evidence shows practices in the installation of electrical wiring and anti-trust statutes. The report asserts that there are other participants in the alleged conspiracy "to restrain trade," besides Jennings and Chapline, but no other indictments have been returned.
